

Former Upstater Recalls Events of That Sunday Morning in 1941

PEARL HARBOR (AP) — Just before 8 o'clock on a sunny Sunday morning 24 years ago today, an aircraft skimmed low over Pearl Harbor.

A 23-year-old ensign aboard the USS Oklahoma, one of eight battleships moored in the harbor that day, saw it.

The young officer from Batavia, N.Y. — just 18 months out of the Naval Academy — had just gone on watch 'topside.' He gave the plane only a passing glance as it zoomed overhead. Low-flying planes were commonplace.

Then hell broke loose. Today Capt. Sidney Sherwin was to visit the memorial straddling the sunken bulk of the battleship Arizona and pay tribute to those of his comrades who lost their lives on Dec. 7, 1941. Sherwin, 47, now holds a top job at Pearl Harbor Naval Shipyard and lives in Honolulu with his wife, the former Jane Blewitt of Newport News, Va., and their three children. He lost 10 classmates in the 1941 attack — three on the Oklahoma and seven on the Arizona.

More than 1,100 U.S. Navy men remain entombed in the sunken Arizona. Another 900 were killed on other ships, 1,700 were injured, and eight battleships were sunk or disabled. One of those which capsized was Sherwin's ship, the Oklahoma. Some 400 members of the crew were killed.

Sherwin, recalling the morning's events, said the plane he spotted came in so low "I could see the oil stain on the engine, and the pilot looking out over the side." But he said he didn't see the "meatball" — the Japanese

Rising Sun emblem — on the side "and I doubt whether it would have meant much at the time if I had."

Then the bombs began going off. Sherwin said there was a lot of "milling around" but someone quickly got on the bullhorn to sound general quarters. "We headed forward to our battle stations and got into officers' quarters," Sherwin recalled. "I felt the first explosion, then there were a number of others. We went up a ladder through an escape hatch."

Sherwin said that as he reached topside, the battleship began to roll slowly over on its side and settle in the mud. He said he neatly stacked his watch, wallet, shoes, and part of his uniform on the capsized vessel, then jumped into the oily water with two sailors.

He and one of the enlisted men, named Curtis, could swim.

The other man couldn't so they towed him through the water to the battleship Maryland, moored alongside the Oklahoma at Ford Island.

Ford Island sits in the center of Pearl Harbor, and was the site of the now famed "Battleship Row."

At this point, Battleship Row was a shambles of burning, exploding ships. Oil which gushed from them left a mark on the banks of Ford Island which can still be seen today. It looks like the scum around a bathtub. Even now oil slicks occasionally appear on the calm, blue surface of Pearl Harbor above the Arizona.

Sherwin recalls arriving at the dispensary aboard the Maryland at precisely 8:15. A bomb struck the ship just afterwards. "I remember looking at the clock," he said. "It was 18 minutes since the attack began but it seemed a lot, lot longer."

President Moves Closer To Viet Nam Decisions

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson, moving closer to Viet Nam policy decisions, summoned top national security advisers to a conference today that officials said bore no relation to an announced increase in the Soviet military budget.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Secretary of State Dean Rusk were called to the President's ranch before the Soviet announcement was made. Press secretary Bill D. Moyers said "I don't know of any relationship" between the meeting and the Moscow announcement. The President was up early today, doing paperwork and studying documents in advance of the arrival of the two Cabinet officers. Johnson announced his conference with McNamara, Rusk and national security aide McGeorge Bundy at an impromptu ranch news conference Monday. "We will discuss defense needs rather fully," Johnson said.

The President emphasized that no big decisions have yet been made in the wake of McNamara's inspection trip to Saigon last week.

He did not say when the decisions would be made. However, in a statement Sunday taking issue with a Federal Reserve Board move to boost interest rates, Johnson said he wished the board had waited until January "when the nature and impact of the administration's budgetary and Viet Nam decisions are known."

Johnson did tell reporters that "until we do have peace, we are going to continue to help the people of South Viet Nam resist aggression and we are going to supply whatever men will be needed in that effort."

No Predictions: LBJ
The subject came up after a reporter reminded the President of a published report from Saigon that Viet Nam troop increases possibly matching those of the Korean war were being discussed. Some 500,000 U.S. troops were in Korea at one point, compared with 165,700 now in South Viet Nam.

"I wouldn't want to make any predictions or prognostications," Johnson said. "We no doubt between now and the first of the year will have to make plans for what changes will take place. But so far as I am aware, these plans have not been made yet, and these decisions have not been made."

Will Wait for Time
All this, coupled with his Sunday statement, seemed to suggest that Johnson will wait a while before making the decisions or, at least, will keep them under his hat until Congress convenes next Monday. (Continued on Page 12, Col. 2)

Aircraft Carry War To Reds

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. fighters and bombers pounded suspected Red bases and supply routes in South Viet Nam today while ground fighting again slackened off.

A battle-scarred battalion of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division skirmished briefly with Communist forces on the jungle outskirts of the abandoned Michelin plantation 40 miles northwest of Saigon while both sides were apparently searching for combat dead in the big battle fought there Sunday.

Capture Enemy Trooper
The men of the "Big Red One" captured one enemy trooper who identified himself as a North Vietnamese regular in a heavy-weapon company attached to the Viet Cong regiment prowling the area, U.S. spokesmen said.

Although air attacks on North Viet Nam slackened off to 11 missions on which Air Force and Navy planes unloaded 31 tons of bombs, U.S. and Vietnamese aircraft flew 408 combat strikes in the South, spokesmen announced.

Sailors Die in Fire
Off the Vietnamese coast, the 76,700-ton carrier Kitty Hawk sent aloft her jet fighter-bombers again after her crew battled a series of fires for three hours Monday. Two sailors died of smoke inhalation, and 29 persons were injured, when flash fires broke out below decks while the carrier was taking fuel from a tanker.

A two-seat F4C Phantom jet crashed 280 miles north of Saigon, apparently killing both crewmen. Spokesmen said they did not think the supersonic plane was hit by ground fire.

The skirmish on the rubber plantation occurred as a 1st Division battalion battered in the Sunday action scoured the area for three missing American bodies. They ran into a large Viet Cong group also apparently searching for its dead.

Cong Flees
Although the Americans were not given orders to attack — presumably because they were off their peak fighting form — shots rang out across the clearing. The Americans called for air and artillery strikes and ground reinforcements, but the Viet Cong fled, leaving behind (Continued on Page 18, Col. 7)

Pentagon Move Affects Four State Installations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Air Force and two Navy installations in New York State will be reduced or eliminated under terms of a Defense Department economy move.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, who ordered the cutbacks Monday, said, however, that one Upstate U.S. Air Force Base would gain personnel with the assignment of a replacement fighter squadron. The Pentagon gave this breakdown in New York of its decision to close or reduce 149 military bases at an annual saving of $410 million.

Viet Attack Plan: Helicopter Strikes

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. forces probably will use intensified "roving strikes" by helicopter-borne fighting men against a heavier inflow of Communist North Vietnamese troops.

Barring a major change in national policy, it is considered highly unlikely that the United States will send troops into Laos to form a fence to cut off the movement of North Vietnamese regulars into beleaguered South Viet Nam. Also, Cambodia's professed neutrality will be respected, even though U.S. officials believe Communist troops have used that country as a sanctuary.

Arrest Morhouse On Indictment From SLA Probe

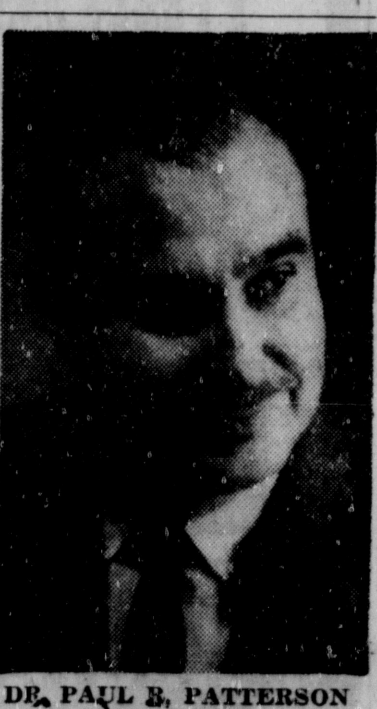

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Republican State Chairman L. Judson Morhouse was arrested today on a six-count indictment stemming from a probe of corruption in the State Liquor Authority.

Tied to Bunny Efforts
Morhouse, 51, a lawyer with offices here and a home in Ticonderoga, N.Y., was accused of conspiracy, bribery and taking unlawful fees.

Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan called a news conference to announce that Morhouse had been indicted in the much-publicized efforts of Playboy officials to open a Bunny Club here.

Morhouse, accompanied by his lawyer, Sol Gelb, appeared at Hogan's office an hour before the announcement and was placed under arrest.

18-Page Indictment
The 18-page indictment charged that the alleged crimes took place while Morhouse was the GOP's state chairman—a post he held for an unprecedented five terms.

Result of Talks
This picture emerged from interviews with top sources familiar with the planning in the growing war in Viet Nam.

There is a body of opinions in the military which favors the idea of sending U.S. troops into Laos and thus to try to sever the infiltrator lines over which a growing number of North Vietnamese regulars are believed moving south.

As one source put it, "It's better to put a bucket under the faucet than to try to mop up the floor."

Within the present policy, sources said, the United States is basically fighting a strategic defensive in its efforts to save South Viet Nam from being overrun by the Communists.

The best way to do this, experts said, is to take the tactical offensive — "to find the Communists and cut them to pieces."

This is a course of action which U.S. ground combat forces have been following for (Continued on Page 12, Col. 3)

Criticism Mounts, Ask Curbs on Federal Unit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board's order boosting interest rates has drawn new congressional criticism after a meeting between President Johnson and board Chairman William McChesney Martin Jr. produced no change in their opposing stands on the increase.

Some Democrats who attacked the board's Sunday decision, which raised interest rates to the highest level in 35 years, suggested the possibility of curbing the board's independent status.

But indications were that critics would vent their wrath against Martin in congressional hearings next month and subside temporarily to see what happens with the economy before proceeding further.

The board looks upon the increase as an anti-inflation move. The administration says higher rates may put a damper on the economy.

"He didn't address himself to changing my mind and I didn't address myself to changing his," Johnson told a news conference after his two-hour meeting at his Texas ranch with Martin and other economic advisers.

Martin said that while he was optimistic about the future of the economy, he looks on the threat of inflation as a very real one. He said the board had moved to combat inflationary pressures.

"This is a matter of judgment," the Federal Reserve Board chief said, adding that the move "was not intended in any way to defy the President or the administration. The press ought not to cast me in that role," he said.

And Johnson commented to reporters: "It's your job to provoke fights and my job to prevent them."

Johnson also said that "both of our positions have been clearly, fairly and accurately stated" and that he expected to continue to meet regularly with Martin.

Specifically, the Federal Reserve Board authorized an increase from 4 to 4.5 per cent in the discount rate on interest charge by regional Federal Reserve banks on loans to member commercial banks, and an in-

Spacemen Whirl On, Early Pursuit Looms

SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) — Astronauts Frank Borman and James Lovell Jr. sped serenely on around the world today as prospects brightened that America's great doubleheader space adventure could be performed a day earlier than planned.

In 43rd Orbit
Refreshed after another good night of sleep in quiet, drifting flight, Borman and Lovell were ordered to make the first of two shifts in the Gemini 7's orbital pattern in preparation for the historic meeting in the skies with the Gemini 6 space ship.

Gemini 7 began its 43rd orbit at 9:37 a.m. EST. Gemini 6, with Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra and Air Force Maj. Thomas P. Stafford aboard, is scheduled to ride a Titan 2 aloft next Monday.

At Cape Kennedy both rocket and spacecraft crews were running a full 24 hours ahead, and the possibility of a Sunday launch became a strong possibility.

Flight Director Christopher C. Kraft said a final decision would not have to be reached before Thursday, but in the meantime he instructed Borman and Lovell to make a preliminary maneuver toward bringing the Gemini 7 spacecraft into a circular orbit.

If Gemini 6 is launched a day early, Borman will carry out another maneuver Thursday that will bring the Gemini 7 into a circular orbit 185 miles from earth.

Simulated Test Tonight
George Page, chief spacecraft test conductor at Cape Kennedy, said a simulated flight test of Gemini 6, originally planned to begin at midnight Wednesday, would start at midnight tonight.

This test requires both the spacecraft and booster to function together as they would in a regular countdown.

Air Force Lt. Col. Borman and Navy Cmdr. Lovell reported themselves in fine fettle when the tracksters at Carnarvon, Australia, called up this morning at the end of their sleep period.

Busy Day Ahead
A busy day lay ahead for both men. Besides the orbital maneuver, they were assigned to take numerous pictures of landmarks which might be used as navigational aids during the later Apollo to man-to-the-moon flights; photograph land features in Africa and Central and South America; perform important medical experiments, and, once again, try the laser light beam experiment.

Hold Po'keepsie Man for Role in Ohioville Heist

Harold Delano Lee, 25, of 39 Tulip Street, Poughkeepsie, was arrested at 6:15 p.m. Monday on a charge of being one of the men who held up and robbed Fred Woolsey at the Ohioville Liquor Store on the late afternoon of Dec. 1, making off with $400 in cash.

Warrants for Two Others
Warrants have been issued for two others, allegedly involved in the robbery. They are Thurman Lee, a brother of Harold, of 35 North Perry Street, Poughkeepsie, and James Woods of 197 Main Street, Poughkeepsie. Both men are in Dutchess County Jail in connection with a Dutchess County robbery last Sunday.

Lee was arrested by Senior Investigator Michael Lisman, Investigator John Saliers and Trooper Joseph F. Czaplinski and taken before Justice of the Peace Linn Baker of Town of Lloyd.

Lee was charged with first degree robbery and committed to jail for grand jury action.

Woods and Lee, alleged accomplices, troopers said would be arrested later on warrants.

Lee was under questioning in Dutchess County in regard to a Dutchess County robbery which took place Sunday when it is alleged he gave information to Poughkeepsie Detective William Norton and Deputy Sheriff Borchert in regard to the Ohioville robbery. Local authorities were notified and charged him with first degree robbery.

Retiring Today, Assisted Reorganization of Police

The man who assisted in reorganization of the Kingston Police Department after it was investigated in 1957, Capt. Kenneth E. Weidenborner, is due to retire as of this date, the Associated Press noted in a report from Batavia Monday.

Capt. Weidenborner, the report also noted, had directed the Apalachin gangland convention raid eight years ago.

Francis S. McGarvey, state police superintendent, assigned Weidenborner, then a lieutenant, to assist with the reorganization. State police help had been requested by local officials.

Investigation of the local force followed the arrest of two patrolmen in July, 1957 on burglary charges. It revealed other irregularities and several officers were discharged. Weidenborner came here early in 1958 to assist with reorganization. After his work was finished late in 1958 and he was due to leave the city he was given a farewell dinner by the Kingston Patrolmen's Association, and was praised by Mayor Edwin F. Radel for his assistance.

At Batavia headquarters he had been night supervisor of the 11-county Troop A. He has completed 29½ years of state police service.

He was in charge of the Troop C Station at Sidney on Nov. 14, 1957 when he directed other troopers in a roundup of alleged underworld figures meeting at the Joe Barbara Apalachin estate.

Lt. Edgar D. Crosswell, a former Kingston resident, had also figured prominently in the Apalachin raid. Before joining the state police he had served in both the local police and fire departments.

Everything Went Wrong
In 1941, almost everything went wrong in the weeks preceding Dec. 7 and on the day itself.

The possibility of a Japanese attack somewhere had been foreseen for months. The United States had accomplished a dramatic breakthrough in intelligence, cracking the cipher code used by Japan. Still matters went awry.

Using information from the cracked code, intelligence experts were able to decipher or Dec. 6 most of 13 parts of the 14-part radio messages sent by Tokyo to the Japanese Embassy in Washington.

The picketing developed from a complaint by a 14-year-old Negro boy employe that the grocer, Haldred Overstreet, had beaten him after accusing him of stealing merchandise. Overstreet denied beating the boy and testified he fired him for stealing food.

Henry D. Paley said the report found that the poorest Britons gambled the most. This hurts the economy because it diverts money from normal consumer goods purchases by the working class, he said.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - What's the best way to keep prices from rising too high too fast?

President Johnson thinks the way is to put government pressure on businessmen and bankers to hold the price and interest lines. William McChesney Martin thinks the better way is to take some of the speculative steam out of the money and credit markets.

Going One Way Now

Each is going his own way now. And the country should soon see which method works the better, or if neither works.

The President has used federal defense stockpiles. White House supervision of labor negotiations, controls dubbed voluntary against the sending by businessmen or bankers of U.S. dollars abroad where they can earn higher returns. The President thinks all this will hold the economy on the fairly steady upward course of the last five years.

The Federal Reserve Board is taking a different tack. It is raising the discount rate, usually regarded as the pace-setter for the cost of borrowing. It thinks that will cool down an incipient speculative boom that could send prices sky high if too much money and credit is floating around.

Will other interest rates rise fast? Some may follow the Fed's discount rate, which is what it charges banks for money they borrow to lend to businessmen.

Just Following Trend

But many observers note that interest rates have been going up steadily for some time. In that sense, the Fed is following the trend, not setting it.

Yields of U.S. Treasury securities have gone well above the 4.5 per cent which the Federal Reserve will now charge the banks. The commercial banks themselves have been lending to most businessmen well above the 4.5 per cent prime rate they list officially.

Interest rates that lending institutions pay for deposits also have gone up in recent months. Savers have had a choice: higher rates at the commercial and savings banks and the savings and loan associations, or corporate and government securities paying yields unmatched for many years.

And for Americans there was a temptation to send their savings abroad to get still higher returns there.

Don't Determine Prices

Interest rates in themselves don't determine consumer prices. But the bankers say they have a long-term effect. That is because a large supply of cheap money and credit gives the nation lots of dollars with which to bid up prices in the marketplace. An abundance of money also can feed speculation. And that usually leads to a big boom, with rising prices, followed by a bust.

The President obviously believes no such speculative boom is in the making and that no monetary check rein is called for. He thinks government persuasion can hold prices and wages in line. And he fears that Martin, by moving toward tighter money and credit, may discourage some of the plans for expansion counted upon to keep the economy climbing in 1966.

The conflict of ideas is a basic one. It puts the new economics of the Johnson administration at odds with the conservative monetary policies of the bankers. The President thinks inflation can be held in check by government-business cooperation. Martin thinks inflation can be checked by keeping the money supply a bit less plentiful. It has been expanding rapidly this year to record levels.

Consumers hope one or the other will work — that neither prices nor interest rates will rise to burdensome heights. Some suspect the two ideas might even work together toward the same desired goal.

Drastic Changes In Speed, Traffic Laws Suggested

Drastic changes in the speed and traffic laws are suggested to Governor Rockefeller by Howard I. Spaulding of Lakeview Avenue. His letter to the Governor reads as follows:

Dear Governor:

I am writing this letter to you in the hope of being instrumental in saving traffic lives, preventing the flouting of our laws and in the hope that the result would engender a deeper respect for our law enforcement officials.

The suggestion I have is a radical departure from our speed and traffic laws as we have always known them. Namely, I would suggest: Let us rescind all maximum speed limits on the open road.

Please let me substantiate my position as briefly as possible.

Cause the motorist to be responsible for both his and others' safety. Let him be governed by a law that says — Any traffic officer may arrest him for any careless and reckless procedure on the highway.

This alone can start him thinking, and instead of always watching to see if he is followed or is approaching a speed trap, he regards his own conduct and is happier with the law and its enforcement officers. A happy driver is a more careful driver.

Practically no driver on the road obeys the law to the letter and as a result — as with the Volstead Act — the breaking of the law and subsequent disrespect follow. This would be eliminated.

No one can control the young drag racers and the drunk except by barring them the use of the highways.

It is my belief that this system should be given a try before it is any later. I am not concerned with people who kill themselves. We all have to die sometime. I am deeply concerned with the waste of humans who are broken and maimed and the families who suffer and go broke as a result, not even mentioning the extreme loss of property.

Will you please give this some

PROPHECY OF STARVATION

"Within the coming 10 years, literally millions of people will die of starvation and hundreds of millions will lead stunted lives unless the underdeveloped world quickly acquires the ability to feed its soaring population."

This alarming claim, made in an article in International Science and Technology magazine, is supported by mathematical data.

The world's population, which stands at about 3.2 billion today, will rise to 4 billion by 1980 and will more than double by the year 2000. The important factor is that most of this increase will occur in Asia, Africa and Latin America — areas which even now cannot meet their food needs adequately.

Most people, notes editor Howard Mattson, confidently look to modern science to solve the problem. One possibility being talked about is a protein supplement that could be made by micro-organisms such as bacteria, fungi and yeasts "grazing" on coal and crude oil.

Another, slightly more attractive, is a fish meal made from the whole fish—inards, heads, scales and all.

Yet although the technology may exist to produce sufficient foods to meet the basic need, they would be so unfamiliar to local tastes and habits that there would be too few consumers to support their production as long as even limited supplies of customary foods were available.

Nor is the simple redistribution of surpluses from one part of the world to another the answer. New mouths in the underdeveloped world will require 300 million tons of additional grain annually by 1980—the current production of North America and Western Europe combined.

The present U.S. stockpile of wheat, which once seemed so huge and permanent, contains only about 29 million tons and is beginning to shrink. Some congressional and farm leaders are already proposing that crop controls be ended and that the money now being paid American farmers not to produce be spent to buy increased supplies for the needy abroad.

Yet even if enough food can be grown in the developed world, ships, harbors and distribution facilities are inadequate to handle it.

The bulk of new supplies, maintains Mattson, must come from within the hungry nations themselves. This means huge educational programs to convert backward farming populations to new methods and new crops.

It means the shipping of vast quantities of fertilizer to the underdeveloped nations while they are building their own fertilizer plants.

It means an indefinite continuation of foreign aid on the part of the United States, an expenditure of talent and money which must out of enlightened self-interest, take precedence over our most favored scientific projects.

Ultimately, however, the article warns, no amount of short-range agricultural expansion will head off catastrophe unless it is coupled with long-range population control.

AS LIVING COSTS RISE

There are signs that the administration is getting quite nervous about the danger of inflation. Recent use of metal stockpile surpluses to thwart price boosts, coupled with official warnings that both labor and business are going to be watched lest they get out of line on prices and wages, bear this out.

The administration's fears have doubtless been heightened by the rise in the Labor Department's consumer price index. This shows that the cost of living rose another two-tenths of a per cent in October, and that the rate of increase—1.8 per cent since October 1964, as compared with 1.2 per cent annually in the previous five years—has stepped up.

Although officials shy away from any admission that this constitutes inflation, their comments suggest that the thought is very much in their minds. The assistant

'These Days'

IN THE COUNTRY OF THE BYRDS

Leesburg, Virginia—It was a Sunday party a few miles from here at the home of a retired Admiral on the crest of the Blue Ridge. Below, you could catch the glint of the Shenandoah River as it winds through the Great Valley of Virginia. And, looking toward the community of Berryville, you could see the apple country, where Virginia's long-time Senator Harry Flood Byrd, Senior, has his extensive orchards.

There were friends and relatives of the Byrds at the party, and they were talking about the old Senator's recent retirement and the appointment of his son, Harry F. Byrd, Jr., to fill out the period in Washington between now and the 1966 election. There was a division of opinion about the wisdom of taking an appointment for a year. Would it give "Young Harry" enough time to prove he has some political character of his own? Wouldn't it have been better if Governor Albertis Harrison had appointed an interim seat-warmer, leaving it up to Harry Byrd, Jr., to get the nomination in 1966 by his own efforts in a contested primary? The answer to such questions is inevitably bound up with the state of what has been called the "Byrd machine." And the consensus seemed to be that there had never really been any "Byrd machine." There had only been the "old organization," a loose-knit group of like-minded Virginia Democrats who had always supported fiscal conservatives such as Senator Carter Glass, and who had responded to Harry Byrd Senior ever since he was governor simply because he was in a well-known Virginia mold.

I don't know enough about Virginia politics to catch the local shading between a "machine" and a "loose-knit group of like-minded individuals." But the talk about the merit of "Young Harry" to prove himself made sense when the changes in the Virginia voting population are considered. "Like-mindedness" is disappearing from Virginia, as from other places in the Union. More Negroes will be voting in 1966. Thousands of "liberal" Democrats have moved into northern Virginia; they work in the District of Columbia, but they sleep and vote south of the Potomac River. Then there are the die-hard segregationists, who might vote for a fringe candidate, whether Democratic or Republican. Truly, to win in Virginia a man must be prepared to gain respect on sheer character.

The old Harry Byrd always had character. One of his friends at the party on the Blue Ridge was pointing toward the country of the Byrd apple trees and saying that the old Senator had never tangled with Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz, who has been making it difficult for apple growers to bring in accomplished pickers from outside the United States. The old Senator would have considered it self-serving to take the lead in any attack on Wirtz's administration of the so-called anti-bracero law, which leaves it up to the Department of Labor to decide how many foreign harvesters are needed to get the crops in. The point then made about Young Harry, as his father's successor, was that he has the same quality of rectitude that has made the old man famous. As proof of this there was offered Young Harry's decision not to run for governor of Virginia in 1960. "I cannot ask the people of Virginia to give to father and son simultaneously the offices of governor and United States Senator," he said at the time.

The question of "dynasties" in politics has bothered some of our heavy thinkers. But whether a "dynasty" is good or bad depends entirely on the question of ability. The young La Follette, Bob and Phil, continued the tradition of old Bob La Follette with distinction. The career of Senator Bob Taft, "Mr. Republican," was surely as bright as that of his father, William Howard Taft. There is much to be said for a son who has been exposed to the tradition of a father since childhood, provided the father represents a worthy tradition in the first place.

Young Harry Byrd has a fine tradition. More important, he believes in it. "I am going to be a progressive conservative," he says. Meaning that he will approach problems of government as he has approached the problems of managing the Byrd family's two newspapers, which he has both modernized and paid for out of income. Shun Causative Factors Of Coronary Sclerosis

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D. Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—An electrocardiogram showed that I have coronary sclerosis. What causes this? Is there any way to arrest it?

A—Coronary sclerosis, like hardening of any other artery, is caused by insoluble deposits of cholesterol and triglycerides in the arterial wall. Both of these substances are normal and necessary constituents of the blood, but a diet high in sugar, starch and certain fats will increase the concentration of these substances to a dangerous level. Lack of sufficient exercise and smoking are also causative factors. Avoid these factors and you will decrease your chances of a serious heart attack.

Q—I recently had an acute myocardial infarction. What are the chances of having another one? What should my physical capabilities be after recovery from this one?

A—After myocardial infarction, commonly called a heart attack, the chances of having another depend on many factors. Many a moderately severe attack has acted as a warning signal for the victim to slow down. He makes a good recovery and then, under careful guidance by a physician who knows him well, he can enjoy many years of productive life.

Q—The doctor says my sister, 48, has a tired heart. Is this serious?

A—This is an unfortunate phrase because it is vague and causes the victim to worry more than if she were given an out-and-out diagnosis of heart disease, which your sister may or may not have. If I were to say that a person had a tired heart I would expect a good night's sleep to cure it but I suspect that this is not always what is meant when this term is used.

Why not ask the doctor what kind of heart ailment your sister has and how serious it is?

Q—What is posterior coronary insufficiency with hypoxia? Is it serious?

A—This is a blocking of the flow of blood through the coronary artery at the back of the heart. When this happens there is an acute shortage of oxygen-carrying blood in the back of the heart. All heart attacks are serious, but few first attacks are fatal.

Q—Is there any chance that a woman who has not menstruated for 3 years could become pregnant?

A—No.

Q—I feel chilly most of the time. What could cause this and what should I do?

A—This may be caused by a thyroid deficiency or anemia but neurocirculatory asthenia is the commonest cause. This is a condition seen in tense worrisome people, especially those who live in constant fear of heart disease. The treatment would depend on the cause.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Washington News

WASHINGTON — (NEA) —

The protesters against U. S. policy in Viet Nam, having marched again, are learning once more that the country pays attention to their exhibitions but not to their arguments. When you get past the pure pacifists and those who would want the United States to lose to the Communists, you find always this one core are engaged in a civil war, a people, against the Saigon government and we are "immorally" intervening to try to block this "revolution."

There are many reasons why most Americans decline to take this notion seriously. Some of them:

● The protesters' contention ignores the fact that the war in South Viet Nam was begun by elite, hard-core Communist guerrillas "left over" from the French-Indochina war, who acted on signal from Hanoi in 1957 and used weapons hidden at the close of that earlier war three years before.

● Hanoi gave quick notice that the signal would be forthcoming, announcing publicly in the immediate aftermath of the 1954 Geneva Accords that the Reds would not rest until all Viet Nam was under Hanoi management.

● The careful historians of Viet Nam indicate that at least two full divisional staffs of North Vietnamese regulars were infiltrated south in the years 1950 to 1963, to co-ordinate and guide Viet Cong guerrilla operations.

● A few regular North Vietnamese regiments, renumbered to encourage the fiction they were separate entities, were functioning in South Viet Nam by 1963. The infiltrating regular force is much larger now.

● The National Liberation Front, proclaimed Dec. 20, 1960, is patently a Hanoi facade, so slightly regarded by Red leader Ho Chi Minh that no more than 30 of the 82 Front posts have ever been filled.

To insist, as the protesters do, that we must negotiate with the Front is to argue that we must deal with Hanoi as it wears two different faces.

● On Jan. 1, 1962, the "Viet Nam People's Party" was established by the Viet Cong in South Viet Nam. But 12 days before first announcement of this in December, members of Hanoi's Lao Dong Communist party were quietly notified that the new party was merely a "tactical necessity" and would be under control of the Lao Dong in the North. Leaders of the new party are not named.

● The kindly North Vietnamese, who so often are represented by the protesters as offering the suffering South Vietnamese people marvelous programs of reform, are estimated by one cautious historian to have executed 50,000 North Vietnamese peasants and sent another 100,000 to forced labor camps in pursuing land reform north of the 17th parallel.

● The Viet Cong, those heralded promoters of good will among the South Vietnamese peasantry, have killed or kidnapped upwards of 20,000 South Vietnamese village chiefs, teachers, medical and agricultural helpers and youth leaders to destroy the working fabric of the land they seek to win.

● However many of the South Vietnamese people the Viet Cong may have enlisted in their cause through persuasion, mild coercion or outright, systematic terror, the entire enterprise has strong marks of a "contrived revolution."

Without some support from the South Vietnamese, the effort at conquest might speedily have failed. But there is every evidence, from the public avowals of Ho Chi Minh and his military leaders, that the effort would have been made in any event. Ho declared his intent before he had the faintest idea what sort of government Saigon would build after the Geneva Accords.

There are countless other points to be made, all of them at odds with the protesters' cherished fancy that the Vietnamese struggle is a spontaneous native uprising cruelly interrupted and frustrated by the United States.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

It is said, at the corner of Pearl and Hudson Streets in New York City the power station where Thomas Alva Edison threw the first switch which lit the streets of a city with electricity on Sept. 4, 1882 still stands. According to a magnificent illustrated coverage by Life magazine in the Nov. 19, 1965 issue this paragraph on Manhattan's electrical history is told.

From this old station, still feeding its DC current into the great lower Manhattan, the magic of electricity opened up for cities of the entire world.

Electricity was to make a "safe and sanitary" world, as these catch phrases are so often misused today by the powers that be are told to us by super-salesmen to fill only their own pockets with salaries or commissions as the case may be. In those years of 1880's electricity promised to free homes from fire hazard of kerosene lamps, yet as time has told, no end of fires do happen because of the magic of this modern electricity. Electricity brought us subways and elevators, and many new industries, and they were not, and are not always "safe and sanitary." Electricity gave great power to everyone. In today's world one can press a button and make ever so many gadgets work. Electricity, like water, can be your friend but also an enemy of mankind, and the great eastern blackout proved it.

I would like to see the supply of candles, flashlights, and perhaps even kerosene lamps in all electric homes stacked away since the blackout. It was the greatest training ground, for what might happen in a real disaster. Independent generators will no doubt appear in many buildings and should especially in all skyscrapers, to light stairs, hallways and bring down elevators.

I think there was and still is, if any remain, sort of Society of the Blizzard of 1888. No doubt, many of those who spent hours together in the blackout will meet again somewhere, perhaps once a year, if they exchanged addresses. I cannot imagine an express elevator in a skyscraper.

LBJ Sets Up Flexible Alibi For Credit, Blame on Rate Rise

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — President

Johnson has set up for himself a flexible alibi — he can't be blamed for what happens now that the Federal Reserve Board has increased interest rates. But if the economy proves strong enough to weather the storm, the Administration could be in a position anyway to claim credit for having prevented an economic setback.

The President, while criticizing the Federal Reserve Board for raising interest rates, pointedly referred to the board as an "independent agency," thus, he indicated that he does not feel responsible for the consequences of the action taken.

The President's reasons for differing with the board may be politically expedient, but they could also turn out to have a restraining effect in keeping the board from taking further steps in raising interest rates.

It so happens, for instance, that in the last four and one-half decades, the Federal Reserve Board has played an important part in the economic sequence of events.

In the boom of 1919-1920, the Federal Reserve Board raised the interest on Federal Reserve loans to member banks on three successive occasions. But this proved more effective than expected. In fact, the stock market dropped and a depression followed as industrial output fell on a third.

Again, in the boom of 1928-1929, the discount rate had been raised four times in order to prevent excessive speculation, and the stock market crashed in October, 1929, after the fourth hike in interest rates. The worst depression in history ensued in the 1930's.

In the boom of 1936-37, credit was again tightened by the Federal Reserve Board, and stock prices declined. Industrial output also went down by at least one-third.

During the boom of 1948, money-tightening came in three steps. Again industrial output started downward and stock-market prices declined.

In the boom of 1952-1953, credit restraint was mild, and the recession that followed was caused mainly by cutbacks in Federal spending after the Korean War was over.

The next example of Federal Reserve intervention was in the boom of 1955-1957, when the Federal Reserve discount rate was raised seven times within 29 months. Stock prices declined and industrial production fell, reaching a low point in 1958.

In the next boom—from 1958 into 1960—the Federal Reserve Board raised its rates five times in succession, to the highest point in many years.

In the present instance, the Federal Reserve Board has increased its rates on three successive occasions — in July, 1963, in November, 1964, and this week. On each of these occasions the interest rate was raised by one-half of 1 per cent—in all, from 3 per cent to 4½ per cent. It is not the amount of increase itself that is so significant as the trend that it starts, because restraints upon borrowing are applied gradually but with steadily mounting pressures.

Businesses that might have been planning more and more expansion based on borrowed money now may find interest rates too high and decide to postpone such plans until conditions become a little more settled. Just what the effect of such hesitancy in a cumulative sense will be is hard to determine at this time.

The impact on government policies is of prime importance. The President had already announced that government spending would go up considerably above $100 billion this fiscal year, and the deficit will be between $7 and $8 billion. Mr. Johnson has been reluctant to cut down non-military expenditures, as he has been convinced that a welfare program for the "Great Society" is popular and will help in job-creation. But now it is apparent that the government may try to hold down some of its own borrowing in order to ease the upward pressure on interest rates. For rates are likely to go higher and higher unless Federal deficits are reduced. The Johnson administration will, therefore, have to give up some of its extravagances and begin cutting down on expenses.

So, while the President may appear unhappy that the restrictions were applied, he may not really be so displeased that some restraining influence has been introduced for which his Administration may not be required to take the political blame.

John M. Robbins and Fred H. DuBois, co-chairmen of the 1965 Ulster County Christmas Seal Campaign announced the names of those who are serving as Township Christmas Seal and Program Chairmen. New township chairmen commencing their key Christmas Seal volunteer role this year included Mrs.

Troy Cook of Highland, Lloyd Slater of Ellenville, Ellenville Chairman, Wawarsing Township Co-chairman; and Mrs. Clifford Hoppenstedt of Gardiner, Gardiner township.

Continuing to serve as Christmas Seal Program Chairmen in their townships this year are: Denning, Mrs. Harry B. Cole;

"These chairmen are heavily committed during November and December in their work toward the traditional Christmas Seal Campaign," the co-chairmen noted, "however each of these concerned and enterprising key township leaders assist in Christmas Seal roster revisions and in designating and clarifying Christmas Seal sponsored health program in their respective areas all year round."

"Currently, we of the Christmas Seal Chairmen group are pointing out to our Ulster County people one of the largest single Christmas Seal supported health programs of recent years; the Respiratory Survey and Breathing Test. Requested by the New York State Department of Health, the TB Association has fully provided the organization, development and coordination of the survey study, all of which is based directly and solely upon Christmas Seal funds and service."

"This Epidemiological Study centered in Kingston, is expected to be representative of the Ulster County area in providing greater understanding of the prevalence of Respiratory disorders here in our county area," the county co-chairmen continued. "We knew the Respiratory disorders are rapidly reaching epidemic proportions, and that Emphysema alone is the second leading cause of disability on Social Security rolls."

Study to Provide Data
E. Robert Johnson, study coordinator, added that the study also should provide information concerning the relationship of age, sex, occupation, smoking, and air pollution to Respiratory afflictions. Upon the findings of the study ultimately rests future service and program to this alarmingly increasing group of Respiratory sufferers and the further development of essential Respiratory Disease diagnostic and treatment facilities for our people in every corner of Ulster County.

Robbins and DuBois urged Ulster County people to continue their past aware support of the County Christmas Seal Campaign. "Christmas Seals have been arriving in mail boxes throughout the county where, voluntarily, each one of our Ulster County people can decide

Marbletown GOP Hears Narcotics Topic at Session

An outline on the problems of narcotic addiction was presented to more than 50 attending a recent meeting of Marbletown Republican Club held at American Legion Hall, Stone Ridge.

Guest speaker was Detective Lieut. Lemuel Howard of Kingston police force.

Lieut. Howard said if only one person in the community is an addict, the area has a narcotic problem. It is up to all citizens, not only the family of the addict, to help with this problem.

"Start in the home, give your child a good strong moral background. Make him and her attend school Sunday school and church and stop truancy. We pay quite a bit for education," Howard told the group, "so why waste our money. The young people will be more appreciative of our efforts when they become adults. So lucrative and corrupting is the traffic in drugs, that it has been utilized by international communism to finance subversion," he said.

Communist China and Castro Cubans are two cases in point, the speaker said. They have sent upon their contribution privately and without any sense of compulsion.

"The compulsion for each of us to make our Christmas Seal contribution," they concluded, "is the value of the Christmas Seal services our gift assures. The Respiratory Study and Breathing Test is a concrete, vital example of actual Christmas Seal program dollars directly as work."

The Christmas Seal Campaign commenced officially on Nov. 16 and continues through Dec. 31.

"Narcotic addiction is one of the country's most pressing medical and social problems. New York State has about 47 per cent of the nation's recorded addicts, totaling between 23,000 to 100,000, not counting hundreds of thousands of marijuana smokers glue sniffers and pill users. So as citizens of New York State we have a huge problem, and it cannot all be piled on police shoulders," said the speaker and he urged all to assist them. In closing he urged the public to "help in saving our youth for their future and our own."

Leslie Piastro Selected DAR Good Citizen

Miss Leslie Piastro, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Boris Piastro, RD 4, Saugerties, has been chosen by a faculty committee and her classmates as the DAR Good Citizen of the year.

Leslie is a senior at Saugerties High School, and has been active in many extra-curricular activities. She is editor of the Bluestone Sentinel.

The qualifications upon which her selection was made are as follows:

1. Dependability — which includes truthfulness, loyalty, and punctuality.
2. Service—cooperation, courtesy, consideration of others.
3. Leadership — personality, self-control, ability to assume leadership.
4. Patriotism — unselfish interest in family, school, community, and nation.

Each year the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution sponsors this award. Local winners participate in a written quiz provided by the national chairman. The New York State Good Citizen winner will participate with other state winners in an essay contest, with the opportunity to win a $1,000 scholarship to the college of her choice. District and state winners are awarded savings bonds.

Lutheran Pastor Extends Topic To Monday Club

A local Lutheran pastor spoke of personality inventory tests at this week's meeting of Saugerties Monday Club held at the home of Mrs. Raymond Quackenbush, Washington Avenue extension.

The guest speaker was, the Rev. Walter Cowen, pastor of Atonement Lutheran Church, whose topic was: What makes you Tick. He spoke of personality inventory tests which measure whether a person has good or poor emotional balance, is dependent or self-reliant, introverted or extroverted, dominant or submissive, self-confident or self-conscious, social or non-social, or leans in these directions. He pointed out that mutual knowledge of the personality traits enable people entering marriage to better understand and meet the needs of the other. He pointed out that a dependent individual orphan seeks advice, and needs appreciation and praise, while a self-reliant person has little need for these, and not needing them, often fails to give them.

The socially minded wife may think her non-social husband a stick in the mud, and he regards her as a "gadabout." Understanding of the personality make up of each other they could better meet each others needs, he said.

Reapportionment To Be LWV Topic Wednesday Night

By Feb. 1, 1966, New York State is required by court order to produce its reapportionment plan according to the one man, one vote decision of the Supreme Court. Included in this, of course, redistricting.

The League will present its program on redistricting at 8 p. m. Wednesday at Saugerties Methodist Church. The public is welcome.

Saugerties League of Women Voters has studied this subject since the Supreme Court handed down its decision and will present its December program on redistricting. The presentation and discussion will center around "how and who should redistrict the State of New York." Mrs. Maurice Patenaude, reapportionment chairman and her committee ask all members to study up on their reapportionment material and come prepared with ideas and suggestions.

Palatines Stop Trinity 2 to 1 As 1st Half Ends

West Camp Palatines Monday night became only the second team in Saugerties Dartball League to slow the obvious pennant drive of Trinity. The Palatines won 2 to 1 with one game going to the West Campers on a 24 to 25 squeaker.

Trinity remains the leader as the first half ends. American Legion was the other team to win a 2 to 1 split from Trinity.

The one-game loss by the Palatines dropped them down one slot in the standings to fourth place as the Golden Eagles blanked Cementon Sportsmen Club. Second place Quarryville won a 2 to 1 split over Malden-West Camp Vols and held firm in the position.

In what is probably the upset of the season, High Woods Sportsmen Club zeroed fifth place American Legion 3 to 0, making the Sportsmen's total wins for the half six games.

Others winning 2 to 1 splits were Centerville over Saugerties Contractors and Centerville Vols over Southside Mens Club. Katsbaan was idle.

The holiday recess starts with the 10th annual tournament of Dartball League All-Stars Monday, Dec. 13 at 8 p. m. in American Legion Hall, John Street.

Contests will be arranged between the home run leaders, high average leaders and low average men, one from each team. Team captains must notify League Secretary Samuel Smith as soon as possible of their choices for the three contests.

Kingston Library Proposed Budget Under Discussion

Officials of the Kingston City Library met with Mayor John J. Schwenk today to discuss the library's proposed 1966 budget. The proposed budget, which was formally submitted at that time, calls for an increase in appropriation of $5,880.

The City of Kingston presently grants the library $29,000 per year. The proposed budget would increase that amount to $34,880. Despite increased services and operating increases, the library has not received an increase in budget from the city since 1961.

In 1961, the library received $24,266.56 plus an additional appropriation of $9,739.37 giving it a total budget of $34,005.93. The next year the total appropriation was cut to $29,000 and has remained at this amount.

During the past year numerous local, regional and state reports and studies have all drawn attention to the local library's inadequacies and indicated that the solution to its problems would be a more adequate budget. The support of numerous civic organizations and clubs were enlisted and received in seeking this goal.

The proposed increase would be used for badly needed repairs to the library's roof, an increased book budget, installation of a second telephone line to provide better public service, increases in Social Security contributions required by new legislation, and funds for bookmobile maintenance.

Representing the library at the meeting were Frederick Stang, board president, and Don Sager, library director.

Sager explained that the budget was prepared by the Board's Finance Committee consisting of Chester A. Baltz, Jr., Amos Newcombe and Mrs. Harold Davis. The committee spent considerable time in paring expenses before submitting the budget to the full Board, which recently approved the budget after additional study.

The library is governed by a board of trustees, comprised of Frederick Stang, president, Chester Baltz Jr. vice-president, Mrs. Ruth Clair, secretary, Mrs. Harold Davis, treasurer, Dan H. Allen, Judge Hugh Elwyn, Amos Newcombe G. Herbert DeKay, and Mrs. Harry Gold.

Model Railroaders Host Upstate Club

Members of the Gloversville Model Railroad Club were Sunday guests of the Kingston Model Railroad Club Inc., at the local club's quarters at 541 Broadway.

The upstate model engineers spent the afternoon operating the "Hudson Valley Lines," quarter-inch miniature railroad system of the local club, and exchanging ideas and suggestions concerning the hobby of model railroading.

Lewis DeGraff, a director of the local club, was in charge of the day's program.

Subdue Pensioner

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Police used tear gas Monday to subdue an 80-year-old pensioner who went on a shooting spree when he didn't receive his government check.

Police said James Lee, apparently angered because he didn't receive his pension check, fired two wild shots at the hotel manager and three more at investigating policemen.

Police returned the fire in a running gun battle inside the hotel. Lee was hit in the wrist as he barricaded himself in his room on the third floor. Some 30 policemen swarmed to the scene.

Try $3.6 Million Suit

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A $3.6 million suit against the City of Rochester, brought by an urban renewal firm, was being tried today in State Supreme Court.

The firm, Rochester Parks Inc. of New York, sought the profits it says it lost when the city canceled its contract to oversee development of the Genesee Crossroads urban renewal project.

The project provided for the demolition and rebuilding of 17 acres of land in downtown Rochester.

LEGENDS OF CHRISTMAS

One legend tells of a palm tree which lowered its branches to put dates in reach of Joseph, Mary and Jesus on their flight to Egypt.

Germans say the aspen refused to bow when the Holy Family passed. Thus aspen leaves shiver in repentance to this day.

When Jesus was seven, say the Scots, He asked birds to spread His message. Seven declined, seven agreed.

Thus doves won favor, crows did not.

Critical of Levitt

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — J. Burch McMorran, state public works superintendent, says State Comptroller Arthur Levitt displays "an unfortunate lack of knowledge" about the Public Works Department. McMorran complained Monday that Levitt's month-old critical report on the department was contradictory and unsubstantiated. Levitt's report, issued Nov. 5, challenged the department's use of outside consultants and publication of estimates of the cost of contracts on which bids were sought.

Pseudo-Squeeze Aids Bidder

By JACOBY & SON
1965 Vanderbilt Cup Winners
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Today's hand illustrates a classic squeeze situation. South has 12 top tricks and there is a potential 13th trick available in either clubs or diamonds. If either suit breaks 3-3 for you a squeeze is unnecessary. If neither breaks but one opponent is long in both of them, he will be squeezed out of one stopper or the other.

The simple way to work the squeeze is to cash all your spades and hearts immediately. This brings everyone down to seven cards and as you can see it takes eight cards for one man to stop both minor suits so the squeeze will have operated provided, as stated before, that one man started long in both clubs and long diamonds.

All this represents pretty good odds in your favor. You can only lose the slam if each opponent is long in a minor suit.

The expert increases his chances by giving his opponents a chance to go wrong. Neither one is looking at that fourth club in his hand. They both are looking at dummy's four diamonds. There is no hope for deception there but expert South starts proceedings by winning the spade lead with dummy's queen and dropping his seven-spot. Then he runs off three diamonds and three hearts. Suppose that one opponent had started with four clubs and four spades. He would have to discard one black card and while he probably should not throw a club, he might just do so.

This type deception constitutes what is known as a pseudo-squeeze. There was no real squeeze but a defender let himself be squeezed anyway.

Brydges Achieves Fast Political Leap in One Year

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Earl Brydges has moved in one year from the outer fringes of the state Senate to the leadership of that house and one of the most powerful positions in New York State government.

His own abilities and the political fate of others have thrust him forward when many public officials are thinking about retirement.

One of Three Keys

But, at 60, Brydges is embarking on a new phase of his career. When the 1966 Legislative session opens on Jan. 5, he will be elected temporary president and majority leader of the Senate.

In that role, he will be one of the three individuals making the decisions that will determine the course of New York State government.

The other two in this top strata of power are Gov. Rockefeller and the speaker of the Assembly.

Because the Legislature will be politically split—with Democrat Anthony J. Travia as Assembly speaker — Brydges will be the chief legislative spokesman for Gov. Rockefeller's Republican administration.

The Republican senators who will serve next year chose Brydges as majority leader at a meeting Monday.

He earned unanimous endorsement with his performance as minority leader during the 1965 legislative session.

Brydges came to the leader's post after 16 years in the Senate as a representative of Niagara County.

Over the years, he established a reputation as a specialist in education and problems of the mentally retarded.

During this period, Walter J. Mahoney of Buffalo dominated the Senate as majority leader through his paternal and sometimes imperious way of doing business.

Mahoney passed over Brydges a few years ago in filling a vacancy in the second-most-sought-after post in the Senate, chairman of the finance committee.

The finance committee chairman traditionally is looked upon as the heir-apparent to the majority leader.

In 1964, however, the Republican power structure fell apart. Democrats won control of the Senate and Mahoney himself was defeated in his home district.

The Republican senators, reduced to minority status, surveyed their own ranks and the dominant, Upstate block turned to Brydges, who moved easily and forcefully into the minority leader's job.

He was the prime factor in the decision of Republican legislators to cast the deciding votes in the Democratic majority leadership fight that delayed organization of the 1965 Legislature for five weeks and in rallying sufficient GOP votes to allow bipartisan enactment of the sales tax.

No Bottle Rot

NEW YORK (AP)—Ever wonder why glass doesn't rust or rot? Most materials have a tremendous appetite for oxygen. The process of absorbing oxygen changes them chemically, causing rust or rot. But glass already is so loaded with oxygen that it can't take on any more, explains Richard L. Cheney, executive director of the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute. That is why glass bottles are so chemically inert that they can safely hold even the most powerful chemicals and don't change the taste, odor or appearance of the products they package, Cheney said.

The Largest Home Improvement Job on Wall Street

The building is Georgian — Colonial architecture, the same type of brickwork and design found in the Colonial buildings of Williamsburg—New York City—Philadelphia—Georgetown—Charlestown, and other historic cities. This design was selected by the Board of Directors and Management of the Savings & Loan Association of Kingston to become an important part of the Uptown Urban Renewal Program of rehabilitating and modernizing that area and still preserve Kingston's historic tradition and its colonial character and charm. We hope our building will be a suitable companion to the historic and colonial structures in the region and add immeasurably to the cooperative efforts in making Kingston—New York State's first capital—Hudson Valley's first and most appealing shopping and commercial center.

Three-Dimension Radar Is FAA Plan for Ports

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Agency is moving to equip the nation's major airports with a three-dimensional radar technique designed to prevent accidents such as Saturday's collision of airliners over New York's Westchester County.

An FAA official said the technique has been satisfactorily developed during the past five years in a program to establish a national air space system. But he said the highly sophisticated, computerized system — costing in the millions of dollars — won't be introduced into the busy New York area for about two years.

The plane locator system is designed for high-altitude traffic control through the use of what the FAA calls stored alpha-numerics. Under the technique, the radar blips of an approaching airliner are electronically tagged with luminous letters and numerals called alpha-numerics. This tag instantly tells air control tower personnel the plane's identification, altitude and location in distance and direction. A device called a transponder automatically flashes the information from the airliner to the tower radar screen. This eliminates considerable voice communication, including perhaps faulty altitude readings, between the pilot and the tower.

Jay D. Sanderson, 23, who lived with his father and mother, was arrested on a charge of first-degree murder.

A call was sent to Hudson police by the manager of the Five Star Restaurant at Third and Columbia Streets, stating a man was bleeding from an apparent head wound and refused to leave the wash room.

Health for All

Carpenter's New Orbit

His headline-making exploits have carried him literally "out of this world" in both directions — up and down. He was one of the earlier astronauts to explore the mysteries of outer space. Then, as a pioneer aquanaut, he tested man's ability to survive deep under water. Obviously Scott Carpenter is concerned about man's welfare, so it was natural that he should enlist in the campaign to abolish tuberculosis and control other respiratory diseases.

But he has a direct personal interest in the matter, too. Scott's mother was stricken by TB. She fought gamely against it and for many years was able to resist its advance. While enjoying her recovered health she freely acknowledged her debt to the programs of TB detection and medical research encouraged by tuberculosis associations, and invested many hours of time as a board member of the Christmas Seal association in Boulder County, Colo.

Now Scott Carpenter is serving as honorary chairman of the 1965 Christmas Seal Campaign.

This is no mere token assignment. He will be busy explaining to the nation, through personal appearances, press, radio, television and films, the vital importance of Christmas Seals.

"The American people have helped launch me to outer space and assisted me in my trip beneath the sea," Commander Carpenter said. "Now there's another journey to be made, and once again I know the American people will be with me. Christmas Seals stand as a symbol and weapon in the fight against tuberculosis and other respiratory diseases, and I am confident of the help and support of all Americans in this important struggle."

In other words—support your Christmas Seal Campaign. If your Christmas Seals have failed to reach you, write or call your TB association now at 124 Green Street, Kingston.

Hints From Heloise

by Heloise Cruse

Dear Heloise:

Here's a thoughtful present to give grandparents for Christmas especially those who are far away:

Last year, my wife and I each sent a small tape recorder (less than 25 dollars each), and bought one for ourselves, too.

As all of us are lazy letter writers, this has been a blessing as we get to hear mom's and pop's voice not once, but many times. They in turn get to hear the children's voices. This they love.

The tiny spoils of tape cost about 35 cents but can be used over and over again.

The greatest part about this is that we have it connected all the time, and when we think of something, we just pick up the mike and add to the tape.

August and Mary Simms You are so right! We bought our parents one last year, and it is so wonderful to be able to hear their voices any time we want to play the tapes.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Try using an emery board for turning under the material when making felled seams in a garment. It's absolutely great.

L. Laswell

Dear Heloise:

As a young mother of a three-month-old son, I find that a box of plastic bags (the type that comes on a roll) is worth its weight in gold.

I carry a box of these plastic bags in the bottom of my baby's diaper bag and when away from home, they are ideal to use for holding soiled diapers.

These bags also keep the damp washclothes from getting everything else wet in the diaper bag.

Stella Kennedy

Dear Heloise:

As I was gluing together some broken china figurines of horses, I had an idea.

Why not use clear nail polish to stick them together?

So I tried it, and it worked. And when they dried, I used nail polish remover to get off the excess polish.

"A MESSAGE FROM A MARINE"

You sit at home and watch TV
You're sipping a cold refreshing tea
The music is on and then you hear
The all star game is drawing near
Then you hear of a far off land
Where men are lying in mud and sweat

A frown appears on your face
You're tired of hearing of this place
Who cares about Viet Nam across the sea

It's far away and doesn't concern me
It's good to be alive and free
But how about the guy across the sea
He's giving his life for you

He's far away fighting a war
Instead of at your front door
This guy who lives in filth and slime
But do some people mind

You lucky guy you laugh and sneer
Because you've never really known fear

This guy faces death every day
Yet he always has something to say
No mail today oh what the heck
There's always another day

The morale is low, the tension is high
Some men even break down and cry
He wants to go home and see his loved ones

But he won't until he gets his job done
He works, watches and stands guard at night

He's tired and sick but he still fights
The college boys think he's a fool
But that's what makes him so hard and cruel

They don't appreciate the things he will do
Like giving up his life for you
He sacrifices so much and asks nothing in return

So that you can stay in school and learn
No parties and dances for this young man

Until they let him come home again
The days are hot and nights too
What wonders a cold can of beer can do

He dreams of a thick juicy steak
That he would like his mother to make

Then someone shouts we've got a hill to take
Some will be heroes, because they are brave

Others will get a flower wreath on their grave
You'll recognize him as he walks by
There's a sudden look within his eye
He walks so proud, yet looks so mean
He's called the world's greatest fighting

No wonder he's so proud he's a

Employs Truck To Move Yacht As Canal Closes

UTICA, N. Y. (AP)—A Canadian yachtsman, trapped by the advent of winter in the closed State Barge Canal, pointed the prow of his 35-foot-long vessel toward Albany today—and prepared to arrive by truck.

Peter Carr-Harris of Kingston, Ont., said Monday he had reached tentative agreement with a trucking firm to hoist the yacht aboard a flatbed truck for the move to Albany.

Goal: Bahamas

His long-range goal is to sail to the Bahamas.

The bearded Carr-Harris and his family were stranded in the State Barge Canal, which links Lakes Erie and Ontario with the Hudson River, when the system closed for the season Sunday.

Their hopes that the canal could be reopened were dashed Monday when a state official estimated the procedure would cost $100,000.

Carr-Harris said he and his family — his wife, Ella, their sons, David, 19, and Bruce, 18, and daughters, Debbie, 14, and Penny, 13,—had planned to sail to the West Indies.

He complained, however, that they had had nothing but trouble since their decision to sell their possessions and move to the Caribbean aboard a yacht.

Hoped He'd Get Out

Carr-Harris, a retired Canadian Army major, said he had been under the impression that if they entered the system before it closed, they would be allowed to complete their trip to the Hudson on their way to the ocean.

But the 20 locks between Utica and the Hudson closed shortly after the craft had entered the system. Edward Hudowalski, superintendent of the barge canal, said in Albany the family would have to tie up in Utica for the winter or move the vessel overland to the Hudson.

Hudowalski said it would cost "close to $100,000 to make the canal safe for navigation."

High Court Tackles Obscene Literature

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court takes up today the ticklish problem of obscene literature and the delicate balance between censorship and freedom of expression.

A legal thicket that has enmeshed courts and book sellers across the land, the obscenity question comes before the court in the form of three separate appeals from lower court bars.

Book dealers and civil liberties groups will be watching to see how the court rules on the cases and whether it alters its eight-year-old standard for determining what is obscene literature.

There was no clue as the justices began the hearings as to whether a change is in the offing. But the fact that the court agreed to hear the appeals means the standard is undergoing reexamination.

Byrs Powers Hotel

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—A real estate operator is the new owner of the 300-room Powers Hotel, which had been scheduled to close Dec. 31.

John J. Petrossi said Monday, after announcing the $12 million purchase, that the hotel will close its rooms to guests as scheduled on that date.

He said, however, that he had no plans to demolish the hotel and that the hotel's restaurant and bar would remain open. In addition, a building attached to the hotel and included in the purchase still will be used for offices and businesses, he said.

The hotel and office building were part of the estate of Ike Gordon, a taxi driver who died last January.

House Destroyed By Fire During Morning Hours

Fire believed to have started by sparks from a chimney destroyed a house on the Smiley property on Pine Road, west of New Paltz, early this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Leunan and their six children escaped from the house. Shortly after midnight a neighbor discovered the fire and sent in an alarm.

Ronald Leunan Jr., 16, was awakened by smoke and carried his 11-year old sister from the premises. Other members of the family were able to make their way to safety.

Firemen from New Paltz were summoned but lack of an adequate supply of water hampered firemen. Tankers were summoned from Clintonville, Gardiner and Highland.

The house, located off Butterville Road, one of the original houses built on the Smiley estate, was completely destroyed. Supervisor Peter Savago, former New Paltz fire chief, said the fire may have started in a woodshed at the rear of the house by sparks from the chimney.

When the alarm for the New Paltz fire was sounded at 12:58 a. m. several fire sirens in the county accidentally sounded. New Paltz firemen secured at 4:30 a. m. today.

Plattekill firemen were called out at 1:19 a. m. for a car fire. They secured at 2:50 a. m.

Marks Anniversary

CUMBERLAND, Md. (AP) — The Most Rev. James Edward Walsh, a frail remnant of the Roman Catholic Church's once flourishing China missions, marks the golden anniversary of his ordination today behind the barred doors of a Chinese Communist prison.

Bishop Walsh, 74, the last known American missionary still in Red China, entered the priesthood 50 years ago at Maryknoll, N.Y. He is a native of Cumberland.

The few reports that the Church receives indicates he is spending his years in prayer and meditation.

Letters to The Editor

Letters to The Editor must bear the name of the writer and communications must be limited to 300 words free of libel and personal attacks upon individuals as such. Only original communications addressed to The Freeman will be printed.

Ellenville, N. Y.
December 4, 1965
Editor, The Freeman:

The finest Christmas present any normal child can receive is a genuine opportunity to grow into manhood or womanhood without the danger of taint of delinquency.

There are, of course, a number of ways of dealing with "juvenile delinquency" so called. One way would be to put down on adult drinking and, so that lazy parents may retain the natural inclination to take a genuine interest in their own children.

An interesting step in the right direction here would be to amend our state liquor laws so that "lady bar files" are kept out of saloons each day until after lunch time, instead of being allowed to begin their "saloon day" early in the morning (with baby carriages parked next to the saloons and the children who are able to walk tugging at their mother's elbows at the bar.)

In the meanwhile, we do nothing but "talk" and try to pass on to a lot of "wild kids" who never had a "Chinaman's chance" to learn how to live decently — and who yet must become a part of the America of tomorrow — our own "adult delinquency" guilt.

Yours very truly,
MANUEL DITTENHEIMER

President Moves

reconvenes next month. The chief executive, who looked tanned, fit and relaxed as he held forth on the front lawn of his ranch home, also discussed the state of his health following Oct. 8 surgery.

"I feel as well as I expect to feel. I don't feel as good as I did before the operation, but I have no reason to feel that I won't be up to my normal operating strength the first of the year."

"I think each day I get a little stronger and I have about reached my objective so far as weight and exercise and everything is concerned. I think things are going well."

Johnson terms the Rusk-McNamara conference "a preliminary meeting that will lead to our first budget discussion." He said the topic would be defense needs for the coming year.

Inquiry Appears Certain on Plan To Close Bases

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional inquiry into Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's plan to close or cut back 149 military bases seemed certain today although Congress is shut down for the year.

Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C. of the House Armed Services Committee, saying that now is not the time to cut back on any defense installations, said his committee will make a full study of the order when Congress goes back to work Jan. 10.

Under a law enacted near the end of last year's session, McNamara must report to the House and Senate Armed Services committees on any plans for closing bases.

But, the law provides that 30 days after making such a report he can go ahead with the closings.

In announcing plans to close or cut back the installations McNamara withheld until Wednesday the official list of bases involved.

Dear Abby . . .

Mistletoe Can Be Trouble

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I hope you can print this before Christmas. It might save a child's life. Last year I bought a package of fresh mistletoe to decorate my house for the holidays. My two-year-old daughter got into the package, which was sitting on my kitchen table. The mistletoe berries looked as though they would be good to eat, so she ate some. (No body saw her eat them, and even if I had seen her eat them I probably wouldn't have been alarmed because I didn't know mistletoe berries were poisonous.) Later that evening she became violently ill. We called a doctor and fortunately she hadn't eaten enough to kill her, but she was very, very ill. Please warn other mothers, Abby.

SAN BRUNO MOM

DEAR MOM: Thank you for your informative letter. I thought mistletoe was to inspire kissing. I didn't know it was the kiss of death.

DEAR ABBY: I broke up with a fellow about a month ago and now he wants to go back with me, but I don't want to date him any more. My mother is on HIS side and is doing everything she can think of to help him. (She coaches him on how to get a date with me. If I tell him I'm busy she tells him to ask me for the next night, or the next, until I have a free evening.) I think the only reason she likes him is because he has a car, and if he takes me some place, like to a game or a dance, SHE won't have to. I am only 15. He is 18. How can I get my Mom to let me make up my own mind about the guys I want to date?

OLD ENOUGH

DEAR OLD ENOUGH: Since you are on to his strategy, it shouldn't be difficult to beat him at his own game. But why the minuet? Tell the fellow you don't want to date him. And tell your Mom that giving aid and comfort to "the enemy" is treason.

DEAR ABBY: What do you do with a husband who is close to 50 and has not yet learned to say NO to anyone?

If someone calls and invites us some place we would rather not go he says, "Thank you for the invitation, I'll ask Jane," (me) then he tells me when they call I should tell them we can't make it.

If someone asks him for a favor he is not in a position to grant, I am the one who has to turn them down and give the reason. If someone has owed him for a long time, I have to coax him to remind them because he could never bring himself to ask. I realize that a kindness is a fine trait, but I wonder if that's what it is? I am tired of constantly being the "bad-y." Why can't my husband do the job?

THE BAD-Y

DEAR BAD-Y: Because he has a wife who not only CAN do the job, but WILL. You may grumble, but he figures you are easier to handle than the others. At age 50, you aren't apt to change him. He's sensitive, gentle, kind and SMART.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell "BURNED UP IN ILLINOIS" not to be so sure that people don't smell like animals. In a book by an Asian, I read that non-vegetarians have a different odor than vegetarians. So, at a party for foreign students, I asked an East Indian guest if this were true.

"Yes," she said, "Meat-eaters smell like meat, and it is offensive to vegetarians."

Travel articles report that the huge Asian water buffalo will allow a tiny native child to boss him around, but let the cranky beast get one whiff of a meat-eating foreign adult, and the latter may have to run for his life. Sincerely, MRS. C. G. OF FLORIDA

Max Baer Is Not Happy-Go-Lucky As on TV Show

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Appearances can deceive, as in the case of Max Baer.

Folks who think if him as the happy-go-lucky Jethro of "The Beverly Hillbillies" should take a closer look. That's not easy, since Max sees few persons outside his close circle of friends, mostly non-actors — "I'm not fond of actor types."

Protests Interviews

Nor does Max cotton to interviews; he has eluded them in recent times. Inexplicably, he consented to a lunchtime chat, perhaps to explain why he doesn't like interviews.

"Did you see that show about Sinatra on CBS?" he asked. "Sinatra was explaining his attitude about publicity and he quoted something Bogart had told him. He said, 'All I owe the public is a good performance.'"

"That's how I feel. I am damned good at what I have to do and don't try to tell me that playing Jethro is easy, because it isn't. Well, I do my job and that's it. That's all the public is going to get from me."

Anyway, he is honest. He demonstrates that by turning down the big-money offers to play state fairs, Las Vegas night spots, shopping centers, etc.

I tried that early in the game and I hated it," he explained. "I'm not an entertainer; I can't sing or dance or tell funny stories. So people would be paying just to see me in the flesh. That is demeaning. They couldn't pay me enough to do it again."

Reveals Little of Self

The why of Max Baer is not easy to determine, since he reveals little of himself. A restless spirit is evident. He graduated in business administration from the University of Santa Clara, but he indicated that his real education came afterward.

"A friend and I spent four months traveling all over the country in freight cars," he recalled. "We lived in hobo jungles and of course we had to steal a little to survive. I mean like a can or two lifted from a grocery store."

After six months in the Air Force, Max came to Hollywood, but not necessarily to act.

"I went into acting because I was hungry," he explained. "I mean like starving. Before that? I was in bookmaking. I wasn't a gambler, really, because you can't lose paying track odds. I was doing very well until I got raided."

"After that was when I got hungry. So I turned to acting, and I made it entirely on my own; I didn't trade on my father's name. That's another reason I don't owe anybody anything. I did it all by myself."

Peace Corpsman Dies With 100 In Togo Mishap

LOME, Togo (AP) — Two trucks careened through a carnival crowd in the village of Sotouboua, killed more than 100 persons and injured 100 others, police reported today.

The dead included an American Peace Corps worker identified by police as James Driscoll of Buffalo, N.Y.

Driscoll, a mechanic, came to Togoland about a year ago and had been working at Sokode, in the interior. Authorities said he apparently died of a broken neck.

The government sent three planes with doctors, surgeons and medical supplies to the village, which is about 180 miles from Lome.

Reports from the village said the trucks went out of control at full speed into a mass of more than 1,000 persons who were packed on the highway for a traditional dance Sunday.

Suspend Inductions From Dec. 23 to 27

WASHINGTON (AP) — Telegrams have been sent state Selective Service directors advising them that inductions of draftees by the Army will be suspended from Dec. 23 until after Dec. 26, a spokesman said today.

The action Friday followed announcement earlier that day by the Continental Army Command at Ft. Monroe, Va., that draftees would not be sent from induction centers to reception centers between Dec. 22 and 27.

The Selective Service spokesman said the telegrams were sent so late Friday that they may not have reached state directors in time for word to be passed out to local boards before today.

Consider Bypass Link

OTTAWA (AP)—The Canadian government says it is considering construction of an 8½-mile-long bypass link in the St. Lawrence Seaway's Welland Canal.

Transport Minister J. W. Pickersgill said Monday the Seaway Authority also was considering additional locks near Montreal.

He said the government had acquired 4,000 acres west of Welland and 275 acres near Montreal to prevent land speculation on the possible projects. No firm decision has been made, however, and there is no estimate of cost.

Election Results Indicate Stature Loss for de Gaulle

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although Big Charley lost a few inches Sunday when he failed to win re-election to a seven-year term in the French presidency, it was not his greatest failure, as he admitted, unintentionally.

From the end of the war until 1958 France was a travesty on political stability. It had so many political parties, from far left to far right. There was only government by crisis. One government after another fell.

Process Endless
The process was endless and France was dwindling into chaos when in 1958 it recalled Charles de Gaulle from retirement to take over. It was so

Undermining Alliance
But while he was undermining the Western alliance, he was providing nothing in its place. Raymond Aron, one of France's most influential political commentators, said Europe could "not afford two De Gaulles."

Sir Winston Churchill in 1945 told President Franklin D. Roosevelt, "I am sure that in the long run no understanding will be reached with De Gaulle."

In the opening of his memoirs, De Gaulle says all his life has been possessed by a vision of France as "dedicated to an eminent and exceptional destiny."

Historians will spend a lot of time trying to analyze his ego which has been so crude as to seem eccentric.

A year ago former President Harry S. Truman, after watching De Gaulle for years, said he sounds "like Napoleon brandy with a strong dash of Machiavellian cynicism. He is in any event over a century too late."

Smith Is Named Foreman of Jury

The Ulster County December term of Supreme Court was convened Monday with grand jurors reporting at 12 noon. Trial jurors reported for duty at 11 a. m. at which time excuses were exercised.

Named foreman of the grand jury was Lloyd Montross Smith of Excelsior Avenue, New Paltz. Acting foreman is Mrs. Florence Anantasia Crosby, 146 Downs Street, Kingston and the clerk elected by the grand jurors is Barbara Jean Buser of 15 Melissa Road, Kingston.

After organizing, the grand jurors were excused until Thursday by District Attorney Joseph

Last Ship Clears

MONTREAL (AP) — The last ocean-going ship in the St. Lawrence Seaway cleared the St. Lambert locks early today, ending the annual rush to escape the winter freeze-up.

Five lake ships were still moving up the Seaway to winter in the Great Lakes. But the water at the St. Lambert locks, usually the first to freeze, was still only 35 degrees compared with 32 at the same time last year. The 13,000-ton Norwegian tanker Azina was the last of the "salties" to clear the Seaway and enter Montreal harbor. She was scheduled to start her transatlantic voyage Thursday night.

Justice Harry E. Schirick is presiding at Part I of the December term.

Urge Nonpartisan Basis on Reapportionment Group's Choice

NEW YORK (AP)—One-third of the delegates who will rewrite New York State's Constitution should be selected on a nonpartisan basis, Howard J. Samuels, chairman of the Citizens Committee for an Effective Constitution, said today.

Samuels said that the Constitutional Convention scheduled for April 1967 would not be successful if the delegates are under political pressures.

Should Be Qualified

The Canandaigua industrialist, who often has been mentioned as a possible candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, urged Democrats and Republicans to name only exceptionally qualified delegates.

Convention delegates will be chosen during next November's gubernatorial election.

His remarks were in a statement prepared for delivery at a news conference at the Hotel Shelburne.

The convention called to draft a modern and compact constitution to replace the present one, drawn up in 1894, will be made up of three delegates from each of the state's 65 senatorial districts, plus 15 delegates at large.

Each to Name Delegate
The citizens committee wants Democrats and Republicans each to name a delegate, with the third to be chosen on a nonpartisan basis by selection committees in each senatorial district.

The district committees would be named by a statewide committee—now being formed by the citizens group—of 13 to 25 distinguished persons. The state chairmen of the political parties should serve as ex-officio members, Samuels suggested.

TRAILWAYS DRIVERS CITED—Howard Haffner, safety and personnel director of Trailways, extreme right, presents awards to some of the 26 drivers who have driven five years or more without accidents. From left are 18-year awards, Ward Harrington, 957,526 miles; Andrew Juhl, 930,259 miles; Kenneth Post, 949,060 miles; Six-Year award, Harry Baumes, 280,911 miles; 18-year award, Lawrence Dymott, 1,075,482 miles. The total safe mileage for the 26 drivers cited was in excess of 13 1/2 million miles.

Named to Supreme Court

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller today appointed Judge Harry B. Frank of Manhattan to the State Supreme Court, filling the vacancy caused by the death of former Justice Henry C. Greenberg.

Judge Frank was elected in November to serve a 14-year term on the court's first district, beginning Jan. 1.

The governor's recess appointment allows Judge Frank to assume his seat immediately.

In another appointment today, the governor named the Rev. Canon William S. Van Meter of the Bronx to the State Council on Drug Addiction for a two-year term.

Letters to the Editor

Letters to The Editor must bear the name of the writer and communications must be limited to 300 words free of libel and personal attacks upon individuals as such. Only original communications addressed to The Freeman will be printed.

9 Hasbrouck Place
Kingston, N. Y.

Editor, The Freeman:

I have made what I consider an appalling discovery, which I would like to share with you.

Some people of the bigger stores in Kingston have started the awful trend of giving children "gifts" from Santa—for a price. This seems to me to be a miserly, greedy thing for stores to do just to show a little more profit. If these big stores can't afford to pay a Santa during the holidays without doing something like this, why don't they not have a Santa.

Theoretically, it is up to the individual (parent) to decide on this payment. But in a practical application, the store in a sense forces the payment on all or at least a majority. If a parent does not choose to pay this "gift" fee, what does he tell his child when no gift is given him yet gifts are given to others? He either pays or forces this question from the child—How come I didn't get a present? What answer to this? I didn't pay Santa. Then what answer to the questions that will eventually follow? What happens to the child whose parents forced or not can't afford this fee?

Adults spend a lifetime deploring what the next generation is coming to—and yet adults will let this kind of thing happen and during the holiday season. Peace and good will indeed.

It is moronic to assume there are no poor in Kingston, so why not make the Christmas spirit be truly that for everyone?

I speak as a mother. I will not be forced by other's greed into allowing my child to receive a gift under these conditions. But also, as a mother, I could not bear the hurt, senseless as it is in a child's eyes. Perhaps my letter will in some way help end this foolish and horrid practice.

Sincerely,
MRS. PAUL HYATT

Rocky Pushes State For Atom-smasher Site

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller announced today that he has asked the state's congressional delegation to help assure that a proposed $300-million atom-smasher be built in New York State.

He made the request in a letter written Nov. 30 to Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the joint steering committee of the N.Y.E.W. York delegation.

The governor noted that Atomic Energy Commission experts recently inspected sites at Auburn, Rome, Hunter, Niagara, Rochester and Brookhaven.

Mexico Sells Wheat

CAIRO (AP) — Mexico has agreed to sell the United Arab Republic 52,140 tons of wheat, a spokesman says. The statement did not mention the cost.

The Other Day

A student said that fishing as a means to obtain food is undoubtedly one of man's oldest activities. It was practiced in the Stone Age, and it is probable that before the invention of crude bone fishhooks fish were caught by using a gorge, a straight piece of bone with the line tied to its center. A fish can swallow the gorge easily but cannot disgorge it. The ancient Greeks followed that with the use of hooks and fishing rods, and it must have been about that time when fishing became a sport. Fish and sea life are becoming an even more important food for mankind and it is predicted that in the years ahead the oceans will be a prime source to sustain the world's growing population. We would like to become important to you... won't you come in, see our excellent service and real buys?

Saugerties Board Discusses Dogs, Flowers, Lights

Dogs running at large, emergency lights at public facilities, decorative flower boxes and lighting for a village skating rink were main topics of discussion at Monday night's Saugerties Village Board meeting.

Trustee Gregory Mulstay reported he had received numerous complaints about dogs running at large in the village and destroying property. Mayor Cornelius Cox named Mulstay to contact the town authorities concerning town regulations in this respect.

Emergency Lights

Trustee Arthur D. York, buildings commissioner reported he had ordered three beam lights for installation at C. A. Lynch fire station, Partition Street firehouse and at the police station for an emergency hookup which would activate them in the event of an electrical power failure.

Trustee Richard Underhill, parks and playgrounds commissioner, reported he will seek an estimate to install four 300-400 watt lights at Saugerties Youth Council skating rink on Main Street opposite Main Street School. He also said he is studying the possibility of securing some benches for the skaters.

Trustee Maurice Clements, street commissioner reported on the Public Works Department project of installing flower boxes on street poles. He said about a dozen were completed and installed.

Attorney Ernest E. Schirmer offered to purchase about 10½ acres of village land in the reservoir area at Blue Mountain.

Says Labor Wants Bigger Share of U. S. Prosperity

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The nation's labor leaders, gathered in San Francisco today, made it clear they want a bigger share of America's prosperity for their members.

The tone of the AFL-CIO's 10th anniversary convention was set by the organization's president, George Meany, who criticized what he called "the naked and ruthless greed of American financial interests."

He demanded "a better division of America's riches" in the form of bigger wage increases out of soaring profits; he blamed "greedy Wall Street bankers" for forcing up interest rates.

Meany spoke Monday to the federation's Maritime Trades Department convention in advance of the opening of the AFL-CIO convention, which starts Thursday.

He described the attitude of U.S. financiers as: "The hell with the workers, the hell with the country and the hell with everything else."

Meany said the AFL-CIO was stronger than ever with a record 12.8 million members in its 130 affiliated unions.

Says Schrowang in Error on Shelter Views

City Plumbing Inspector Charles J. Kelly said today in rebuttal to remarks by Architect Augustus Schrowang Jr. to the Ulster County Board of Supervisors concerning the proposed county emergency operating center adjacent to the County Office building.

"Mr. Schrowang stated that the Civil Defense codes supersede the authority of the plumbing inspector regarding the approval of plans for the Center," Schrowang told the Board at a previous meeting that the plans for the Center complied with the State Building Code.

Kelly's statement: "I say his statements are incorrect and misleading. A letter received from Louis A. Neilson, professional engineer and associate plumbing engineer for the New York State Building Code Bureau, reads in part that regulation Number 11 governing construction, maintenance and use of fallout shelters applies to the proposed Center, and that the local plumbing inspector is mandated to enforce the plumbing code in Regulation 11. Neilson further states that the plumbing inspector has the authority to disapprove plans submitted for construction of fallout shelters in his municipality if such plans do not comply with adequate provisions of the law."

Kelly said that the proposed plans for the emergency Center are in violation of Civil Defense Regulation 11. He said that the plans show that the emergency discharge pipe from the sewer ejector pump terminating at ground level in the Main Street sidewalk area, constituted the violation. He said that the plan would not be approved until the plans are submitted to him showing correction of the violation.

Warnings Issued
Mayor Cox reporting for Police Commissioner Charles W. Stelle said Chief Harold Mills' report indicated that 140 warnings were issued to motorists on overnight parking on village streets and 16 summonses were issued for second offenses.

Trustee Mulstay reported a request from C and S Shoe Company, High Street, for a street light at the upper end of High Street. Village Clerk James Gage was asked to contact Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp. for a survey and recommendation.

Clifton Jones of Saugerties Ambulance Service requested permission to house a second ambulance at 14 Robinson Street to provide better service to the community. The board will study the situation and give an answer in a few days.

Series of Fires Threatens Ammo On Kitty Hawk

MANILA (AP)—A series of fires broke out on the U.S. aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk in the South China Sea Monday, but the 76,700-ton ship continued to launch planes for strikes against Communist North Viet Nam after only a brief interruption.

Two sailors died of smoke inhalation and 28 others and a civilian were overcome as heavy black smoke poured through the carrier's working and living spaces below decks, the Navy said. Nine of the injured returned to duty almost immediately, and the rest were being treated aboard the ship.

Hank Curth, a newsman for the National Broadcasting Co., who was aboard the Kitty Hawk, said fire broke out in a machinery room next to an ammunition magazine while the ship was refueling from a tanker alongside.

The ship snapped connecting lines and the Kitty Hawk veered off. The carrier, after a short time, resumed the launching of planes bound for North Viet Nam, Curth said.

He reported that 500,000 tons of bombs in the ammunition magazine were flooded to prevent the fire spreading there and the sick bay was evacuated.

Planes on the hangar deck immediately over the fire in the after part of the ship were quickly moved forward, Curth added.

He said he was told the fire would not affect the ship's operation.

Says Bank Law Poorly Adapted To Today's Needs

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The state banking superintendent says the state banking law is "poorly adapted to the changing needs of today."

Supt. Frank Wille told a hearing of the Joint Legislative Committee to Revise the Banking Law Monday that the public would benefit from lower interest rates if savings banks could make general-purpose loans.

Wille also attacked a provision that prohibits banks from opening branches when their principal offices are in cities under 30,000 in population.

Noting that 36 such banks are located in fast-growing counties, he said "the State Banking Department considered the present restrictions to be indefensible."

The committee also heard officials of savings banks and state-chartered savings-and-loan associations who asked that they be allowed to make personal loans, open additional branches and invest in out-of-state conventional mortgages.

Reds Close But Luna Try Fails

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union's fourth attempt this year to make history's first soft landing on the moon failed early today. The unmanned spaceship Luna 8 crashed into the moon's surface.

Quick Admission
But unlike after other unsuccessful attempts, the official Soviet news agency Tass announced the failure only 2½ hours after the space ship's radio went dead at 12:51 a.m. — 4:51 p.m. Monday EST.

The failure of the last attempt for a soft landing, on Oct. 8, was not announced for 13 hours.

Unlike other recent tries, the Russians announced Luna 8's mission immediately after it was launched Dec. 3. Missions of its last two moon ships were made known only after they failed.

Tass said Luna 8 worked without a flaw in all stages until the touch-down.

"As a result of the flight of the station Luna 8, a further step was made toward the realization of a soft landing," Tass said in its brief dispatch.

Before the Tass announcement, the Jodrell Bank Observatory in England reported "some evidence of a near-success of a soft landing."

"The general impression here is that the Russians must have really come close to success," said Sir Bernard Lovell, Jodrell Bank's director.

Heavier Model

Luna 8 weighed 3,421.5 pounds, 101.5 pounds more than its predecessor, Luna 7. This indicated that perhaps additional equipment had been installed.

Tass described the last moments of the flight this way: "When the station was approaching the moon, the functioning of the soft-landing systems was checked and the checking showed that the systems of the station were functioning normally at all stages of the landing except the final touch-down."

A soft landing is a prerequisite to landing a man on the moon. It is extremely difficult because the moon has no atmosphere. The Soviet space shots have used retro-rockets to deal with the problem and apparently it was a slipup in the braking mechanism that caused Luna 8 to land too hard and destroy its radio mechanism.

The United States is committed to landing a man on the moon by 1970 but has not yet begun attempts for a soft landing.

Engines Torn From Plane

The plane belonged to the Syracuse Flying Service.

Both engines were torn from the plane, which landed on its back. It did not burn. Papers and brief cases were scattered around the wreckage. Five of the six occupants were thrown out.

Two gas meter readers in the area told authorities they saw the plane plummet toward the ground. Newsman at the scene said there were no broken tree tops, an indication the plane came practically straight down.

Reports Businessmen Plan Bigger Outlays

WASHINGTON (AP) — Businessmen have sharply increased their plans for spending on plant and equipment in the past few months, the Commerce Department said today.

Business spending in 1965 is now expected to be 15 per cent higher than 1964, and a further 14 per cent rise is projected for the first six months of 1966.

The Commerce Department surveys thus indicated that outlays for plant and equipment would run at an unprecedented rate for the fourth straight year.

Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor said "it is reassuring to note that the tone of business confidence remains high and that we can count on the continued contribution of American business to the prosperity of the American economy."

Uses Ham to Help Himself to $18,000

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—A masked man struck a supermarket manager on the head with a piece of ham today and robbed him of an estimated $18,000 to $18,000 in cash, police reported.

Sam Antinone, 30, manager of the Star Supermarket, said he could not determine how the robber entered the store before opening time.

Antinone said he had locked the doors and was counting the money when he was struck with a piece of meat, knocked to the floor and trussed with a rope. He said he then was knocked unconscious.

The robber escaped through a back door, police said.

Antinone was found a few minutes later by a bakery delivery truck driver.

Five Cars Derailed

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Four cars and a caboose of 30-car Pennsylvania Railroad freight train were derailed near Scottsville Monday night.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market rebounded sharply today, recouping virtually all of the losses taken in Monday's selloff on news of higher interest rates. Trading was heavy.

The snapback was especially dramatic in the Dow Jones industrial average, which surged ahead 11.02 to 950.55 — but a six-point jump by Du Pont was a big factor. Joining in the advance were electronics, aerospace defense stocks, airlines, photographic and office equipment issues.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 2.4 at 353.1, almost recovering its loss of 2.6 Monday. Industrials were up .48, rails, .7 and utilities .7.

Sperry Rand made an upside breakout to a new high on a block of 90,000 shares and later traded at 21, up 1½ on a block of 10,000 shares.

Boeing gained 5, IBM 4, Xerox 4, Fairchild Camera 4, U.S. Smelting 3.

Up 2 or better were such issues as SCM Corp., Magnavox, Zenith, Polaroid, Douglas Aircraft, United Air Lines, Eastern Air Lines, Schering and Chrysler.

Prices advanced in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were mostly unchanged. U.S. Treasury bonds edged higher.

Criticism Mounts

increase in the maximum interest banks may pay on specified time deposits of more than 30 days from 4.5 per cent to an all-time peak of 5.5 per cent.

The administration had opposed the increases, which are expected to have the general effect of eventually boosting borrowing costs throughout the economy, taking in such things as homes, cars and other goods bought on the installment plan.

A number of Democratic congressmen said they felt the Federal Reserve Board was trying to defy both Johnson and Congress.

Sen. Russell B. Long, the Louisiana Democrat who is chairman of the Senate Finance Committee when Congress meets next month, said the committee should study and act on the rate boost.

"The Federal Reserve Board action brings into question the advisability of the so-called independence of the Federal Reserve, when the board, appointed by the President, embarks on a policy contrary to that of the President, and a policy which cannot meet the approval of a majority in Congress, which is supposed to be responsible for the board action," Long said.

Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., chairman of the House Banking Committee, had already called for action to strip the Federal Reserve of authority "to thumb its nose" at the President.

Support for the board's action came from Republican Sen. Wallace F. Bennett of Utah, who said its "mild restraint on the increase in the money supply" was needed to head off inflation.

Other Developments

There were these other developments:

— The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., which regulates federally insured state banks, met Monday but took no action on interest rates. It usually follows the Federal Reserve Board's lead.

— Chairman John E. Home of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, which supervises federally insured savings and loan associations, said the raising of the maximum permissible rate on time deposits raises "some serious questions" for savings and loan associations. An increase in time deposit rates might lead many savers to switch deposits from savings and loan associations to time deposits in banks.

— Initial Wall Street reaction to the increase rate boost was a sharp slump in stock prices. But a recovery later in the day halted the drop and regained nearly two-thirds of the loss, as measured by the Dow-Jones industrial average.

City Judge Joseph D. Sacco adjourned today to Thursday the case of two men arrested early Saturday on third-degree burglary charges in connection with a burglary at a Green Street residence.

er test in which Lovell will attempt to beam his voice 200 miles to the earth below over a concentrated line of light.

In High Spirits

Borman and Lovell were in high spirits again today, as they were Monday when they sped through space to the recorded strains of "Fly Me to the Moon."

Both were supremely confident they could stay up the full time.

They settled down to sleep about 10:30 p.m. (EST) after a busy day during which they spotted a Polaris missile fired from a submarine, took dozens of pictures of land, space and weather features and conducted important medical experiments.

Lovell stripped off his pressurized space suit shortly before noon Monday and was still riding in his underwear this morning.

Lovell was expected to do his suit later today and Borman to remove his.

Only Way: Lovell

The subtlest experiment will provide information on design of future spacecraft which will permit crews to operate in a shirt-sleeve environment for long periods.

"It's the only way to fly," said Lovell as he rode in the relative comfort of his long Johns.

The astronauts spotted and photographed the Polaris after it was launched from the submarine Benjamin Franklin off Cape Kennedy.

"We've got her and she's beautiful," Lovell said. "It's easy to track and we're right on it."

The Benjamin Franklin crew later sent a message through a tracking station to Lovell saying, "The pleasure was all ours. It's always a pleasure to help another Navy man out."

Cabin Slightly Warm

At quiet times during the flight, Borman and Lovell listen to music piped to the spacecraft from the ground. Selections range from semi-classical to such appropriate tunes as "Fly Me to the Moon" and "Stardust."

The only complaint the astronauts had was that the cabin interior was slightly warm, with temperatures averaging 78 degrees.

Borman reported a "minor catastrophe" Monday night when he bumped his head against the cabin roof and knocked off sensors attached to his head against to record brain waves during sleep. With Lovell's help, they were pasted back on.

As he knelt on the floor they took $195 from his person and fled. The escape was made in a light colored sedan and when last seen were traveling west toward 9W.

Road blocks were set up but no trace of the men was found.

New Setup ...

mation indicating that negotiations were to be ended and that war was to follow — but still lacked a clue as to where and when the attack would be launched. It still is not clear at what hour part 14 became available. Still another message told the embassy to destroy its code machine and all secret documents. The Tokyo government ordered the embassy to deliver the 14-part message to the American State Department at 1 p.m. EST on Dec. 7 — which was dawn at Pearl Harbor.

Not Available

The late Gen. George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff, and Adm. Harold P. Stark, the chief of naval operations, were not reached for delivery of the latest vital information, which showed that only hours were left before an attack.

Investigations and subsequent statements by Marshall and others seem to show that Stark was away from his home for the evening but that Marshall was at his quarters in Ft. Myer, Va., just across the Potomac River from Washington.

A report by a special Army board which investigated in 1944 says that the important information reached the Army's G-2 (the intelligence division) not later than 9 p.m. on the evening of Dec. 6, was placed in a locked pouch for delivery to the Col. Bedell Smith with a warning that it contained a vitally important message. Smith was Marshall's top aide.

The board commented: "Whatever was the reason of Col. Bedell Smith for not conveying this message to Gen. Marshall on the night of Dec. 6, it was an unfortunate one. Standing operating procedures should have required delivery of this vital information to Gen. Marshall at once."

Was Uncertain

Marshall, in his initial appearances before the several investigating bodies, seemed uncertain whether he was at home that night, but subsequently said that he was.

Dr. Forrest C. Pogue, official Army historian, told a newsman Monday, "There has been no evidence that indicates he wasn't there."

What does the military high command have now to prevent another fumble in contacting its officials if a new crisis comes?

As described by Pentagon sources, it operates this way:

The minute-to-minute whereabouts of the secretary and deputy secretary of defense, the service secretaries, the chiefs of staff and other key personnel is kept on record at all times.

Done by Phone

The civilian and military chiefs have telephones in their homes connecting with switchboards in the National Military Command Center and the White House.

In addition to "clear language" telephones, there are alternate lines using electronic scrambling of the voice to make possible discussion of secret information.

Aside from the "hot line" phones in the homes and offices of the top officials, there are radiophones in the staff cars used by the officials. Air Force transport planes used by the top officials have elaborate communication systems.

But what would happen if a crisis came at one of the rare times when Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara takes a skiing vacation in Colorado?

He could be reached, the Pentagon says, by telephone.

A Slight Life in Income Man on Disability Pay

Q: "I am 60-years-old; in poor health and receiving a disability pension of $115 a month. I would like to buy stock that would let me add even a little more to my pension. I bought San Diego Imperial at 8, which makes no cash payments. Should I hold or sell and lose money? I have $9,350 in the bank at four per cent interest and a paid up house. Any assistance will be appreciated."

A: I offer you my sincere sympathy on your poor health. In your circumstances, I would sell San Diego Imperial and place it with a cash dividend-paying stock. Your loss would be negligible.

I suggest a switch into Libby - Owens - Ford Glass, yielding 5.2 per cent. I believe you should leave $5,000 in the savings bank for contingencies and invest the balance in Maytag, the great Midwestern appliance company, which also yields 5.2 per cent, and Puerto Rican Cement, selling on a 5.1 per cent basis.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO SEND RETURN CHRISTMAS CARDS

Q: Last year we received quite a few Christmas cards from casual acquaintances who had never sent us cards before. My husband thinks we should send them cards this year. He is of the opinion that it is rude not to send return cards to all those who sent us cards. I would like to cut down on my Christmas list; not add to it, and I see no necessity to send them cards. May I please have your opinion on this?

A: To send Christmas cards to people you scarcely know and care little about just because they sent you cards last year, makes little sense and you can, without fear of being rude, omit them from your list.

A Combination Acceptance and Regret

Q: Will you please tell me how to correctly word a reply to an invitation when both husband and wife have been invited to a wedding reception and only the wife will attend?

A: The reply would be worded as follows:
Mrs. John Smith accepts with pleasure Mr. and Mrs. Brown's kind invitation for Saturday, the eighth of January but regret that Mr. Smith will be unable to attend

Gallery Will Open Holiday Show; Will Feature Works by Denham Kelsey of N. Y.

In keeping with the gay, light hearted spirit of the Christmas season, Copeland Galleries in Woodstock has assembled a Yuletide show which is guaranteed to provoke laughter, raised eyebrows and tremendous interest.

Denham Kelsey of New York City, will exhibit some of his better known works. While the majority of it is weighted humor, Kelsey mocks the conventional ways of people, the empty and the vacuous in the life of today.

With this show, Copeland Galleries continues its departure from "typical" art shows by providing stimulus to man's thinking processes.

The Christmas show is also a statement of today's trends including pop art, even Granny dresses.

Folk art of the Pennsylvania Dutch will be represented in the show as well as a delightful corner for the culinary artists.

It, well known creator of jewelry and many other pieces of art, will be part of this holiday show also.

Copeland Galleries is located opposite the Village Green in Woodstock.

Kingston High Entertains Arlington Tonight in Cage Debut

John Spinneweber Is Flu Victim; May Miss Opener

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Kingston High's veteran-laden cage quintet pries the lid off what coach John J. Gilligan hopes will lead to a DUSO championship with a non-league meeting against Arlington tonight at the Kate Walton Field House. The jayvee game gets underway at 6:30.

Despite the fact the locals haven't played a game, one of the returning starters is not expected to see action in the opener. John Spinneweber, at 6-5 the tallest player on the KHS squad, is a flu victim and has missed almost two weeks of practice.

Gilligan said that Brian Bach will probably get the starting assignment in place of Spinneweber. Bach reported late because of football but the KHS coach said his progress has been good.

Bowed to Beacon

Arlington lost to Beacon, 109-83, last week but the Admirals showed a lot of scoring potential against an always tough Beacon defense. Since the game was played at Beacon, you can see the visitors didn't do a bad job.

Mike White, the football end, was the scoring leader in the losing effort. He was aided by Ken Cardinal, the only returning regular from last year.

Coch Frank King's club has a lot of height and figures to give a good account of itself underneath the backboards.

Gilligan said the KHS cagers haven't been sharp in their recent practice sessions. "We have to show a lot more during the game and tonight's the time to do it," he said.

After the Opener

Kingston will be idle until next Tuesday when Monticello comes to the Field House for the opening DUSO contest.

The scrappy New York Ranger general manager has the task of guiding the Blues back up the National Hockey League ladder after replacing Red Sullivan as coach Monday. It could be more easily said than done.

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer tee off as a team here Wednesday in Florida's richest tournament, the $125,000 Professional Golfers' Association Four-ball Championship.

Nicklaus and Palmer are the top drawing cards in a field of 216 of the nation's top pros — the most ever assembled for a single PGA tournament in its 49-year history.

The final PGA event of the year, it will be a renewal of team competition for the first time since the 1953 Miami Beach International Four-ball Tournament won by Tommy Bolt, who is in this year's lineup.

And it will be the first time Nicklaus, top money winner of 1965, has teamed with Palmer in a PGA tournament.

There will be 108 two-man teams competing for $20,000 first-place money in the 72-hole event, to be played over two courses at the PGA National Golf Club.

In four-ball golf, the low score of the two team players on each hole becomes the team score that hole. The tournament is won by the team carding the lowest total number of strokes.

The teams will alternate using the 6,548-yard West course and the tougher and longer 6,896-yard East course during the first 36 holes.

After that, the field will be cut to the 40 low scorers and all

Rosendale Club Seeks Preserve

Rosendale Sportsmen's Association has taken steps toward setting up a shooting preserve.

It was proposed at the club's December meeting that a study be made of lands suitable for a shooting preserve. Hope was expressed that the club could comply with the provisions of the Conservation Law dealing with shooting preserves.

The club again went on record as opposing a doe deer season in Ulster county in 1966.

Members welcome a former club member, Ray Boyle and his son, Mike, who attended the meeting. Boyle, former club secretary, is now living in Norwalk, Conn., having retired from the U. S. Navy after 22 years of service.

Boyle gave an interesting talk on his hunting trips for moose in Newfoundland. He described the habitats where these animals thrive and promised to show films of the trip at a later meeting.

The 37th annual banquet was reported a huge success, with 165 members and friends in attendance. A speaker from the Conservation Department and films will highlight the Jan. 7 meeting.

play will be on the East course. Both courses are 36-36 par 72.

The final nine holes of play on Saturday afternoon is to be televised nationally.

Sullivan Community Appoints Lee Roberts

Lee Roberts, former Ellenville Central varsity basketball and baseball coach, has been appointed head basketball coach at the Sullivan County Community College.

The Generals opened their 1965-66 season last Saturday evening with the strong Fashion Institute Tech five from New City. This is the third year of basketball for the Sullivan County school.

While at Ellenville High, Roberts compiled a 32-22 record in basketball, setting a new school record of 16-4 in 1965 and taking his team to the Section 9 finals.

In varsity baseball, with two years at the helm he won the Duso League twice, in 1963 and 1965.

Roberts is also widely known as a soccer player with the crack Kingston Sport Club of the German-American Football Association.

The Generals will play a 27-game schedule as members of the Eastern Junior College Conference, meeting many of the strongest two-year colleges in the area.

With only two members back from last year's squad much of the team's success will depend on inexperienced but scrappy freshmen who make up the bulk of the squad.

Another Switch For Jack Brandt

By GORDON BEARD

BALTIMORE (AP) — Jack Brandt, who some observers feel still hasn't lived up to his baseball potential at age 31, will have a chance to impress new bosses next season.

The Baltimore Orioles traded the veteran outfielder along with pitcher Darold Knowles to the Philadelphia Phillies Monday for relief pitcher Jack Baldschun.

After the 1964 season, when Oriole President Lee MacPhail urged Brandt to "have a good winter" the irreplaceable one replied:

"I always have a good winter. It's the summers that give me trouble."

Brandt had lots of trouble last season, and Oriole Manager Hank Bauer finally became disenchanted with his performance. Playing only one game in September, Brandt finished with a .243 average for 96 games, hit eight home runs and drove in 24 runs.

In six seasons with Baltimore, after being obtained in a trade with San Francisco, Brandt's best mark was .297 in 1961. Otherwise, he never topped .255.

The Orioles needed Baldschun to strengthen their bullpen, depleted by the retirement of Harvey Haddix and the aging of Stu Miller and Dick Hall.

Bauer said he plans to use Baldschun, 29, and Miller, soon to be 38, in short relief with Hall, 35, in long stints.

Baldschun, a right-hander, posted a 5-8 mark last season, after saving 17 decisions while appearing in 71 games in 1964. He was 12-7 in 1962.

Knowles, considered a top prospect, had an 11-5 mark with Rochester of the International League last year. The 24-year-old left-hander opened the season with Baltimore and was recalled again in August.

By Charles J. Tiano

(Freeman Sports Editor)

Can you name the fastest growing sport in the United States?

Would you say pro football, skiing, bowling, golf?

Not so, says Betty Sorenson, proprietor of the Knight Archery Sports Den at 658 Albany Avenue. It's slot (or model) car racing.

If you never heard of the sport, don't feel too badly about it. Few Easterners have. It has been booming on the West Coast for a couple of years and now is beginning to spread across the country.

Betty Sorenson was first identified with an archery lane which still does a thriving business. She later installed a small slot car track. As a result of the interest generated by the track, a larger course is being installed by George Bold of Bold Inc., a firm which now specializes in building slot car tracks in the area.

"Slot car racing is the closest thing to competing in a real race," says Bold. "The cars are models of real cars and the tracks are fashioned after real raceways."

And just what is a slot car?

Model of Real Car

A slot car is a scale model of a real car. The most popular scale for commercial racing is 1 to 25 (about 8 inches). The car has a small underpin which fits into a slot in the track, but does not lock in it—only the weight of the car keeps it in its lane.

The car is equipped with a small electric motor, which picks up power through tiny brushes attached to the car's chassis, which make contact with metal strips that run parallel to the slot.

The "driver" regulates the current by pressing the button on a small device. Herein lies the skill. If the driver comes down too hard on the bottom going into a turn, his car will swerve off the track.

The cars are directed by a blade in the front that fits into the slot (hence the name of the game) bordered by metal bands that carry the electricity. Hand operated rheostats control the power flow to regulate speeds

(more than 200 mph scale) and also provide braking by use of a light reverse current.

Not Just for Kids

You think slot racing is for kids alone? Wrong again. At least 60 per cent of the slot racing enthusiasts are adults. They are as serious and meticulous as full size racers, watching closely power to weight ratios, front to rear and balance, gears, etc. These are real craftsmen, Bold points out.

The Sports Den will offer racing enthusiasts a choice of a 100 foot, 6-lane road track, and an elaborate 200-foot, 88-lane banked road course (now under construction) as a scaled quarter drag strip on which to race a home made car or kit-assembled miniature cars.

Many racing car buffs own their own cars, but they can be rented at centers like the Sports Den for nominal hourly charges.

Regular racing night at Knight Archery is Fridays at 7 p. m. but there will be other programs and customers may try their hand at the slots any time they wish, says Betty Sorenson. The major track will be ready by Christmas.

Big One for McGuire

South Carolina Stuns Top Ranked Duke '5'

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer

South Carolina's Frank McGuire is bailing his fish hook today after making the first big catch of the college basketball season.

McGuire's Gamecocks stunned Duke, the nation's third-ranked team, 73-71 Monday night and jubilant South Carolina students showed their appreciation by cutting down the nets at each basket and presenting them to the coach.

"Now I can go fishing," quipped McGuire, who has started his second season at South Carolina with a 3-0 mark after a dismal 6-17 finish last winter.

When McGuire said before the season that he'd settle for 10 victories he wasn't counting on the powerful Blue Devils for one of them. But soph Frank Standard's field goal with 15 seconds to play pulled off the upset, capping a second-half comeback that wiped out a seven-point Duke lead.

Second-ranked Michigan swamped Little Ball State 107-70 with a deadly zone press and No. 9 Bradley overpowered New Mexico State 89-78 in the only other games involving members of The Associated Press' Top Ten.

Cazzie Scores 22

Cazzie Russell, connecting on his first six shots from the floor, led Michigan to its third straight triumph with 22 points while five teammates also hit double figures. Bradley, also 3-0, got 18 points from Tom Alex McNutt and Eddie Jackson.

Garry Gray scored 36 points and Jerry Lee Wells 35 as Oklahoma City blasted Chicago Loyola 106-89 for its fourth straight victory and five other clubs went over the 100-point mark.

Florida State led the point parade with a 121-57 romp over Tampa; Creighton crushed South Dakota 103-58; Ohio U.

shelled Northern Illinois 102-64; Morehead whipped Canisius 101-71 and Western Kentucky belted Campbellsville 101-59. North Carolina trimmed Ohio State 82-72 in an intercollegiate clash as soph Larry Miller poured in 33 points, including a burst of 12 straight in the closing minutes.

Unbeaten New Mexico, master of the ball-control game, wore down Iowa State 56-52 for a 3-0 mark while Iowa and Colorado also won their third in three starts. The Hawkeyes got by Southern Illinois 69-58 and the Buffaloes breezed past Northwestern 70-55.

Randy Matson, the world record shot putter, hauled in 15 rebounds and John Beasley hit 32 points for the second straight game as Texas A&M topped Southwest Texas 76-66. Georgia Tech outscored Rice 96-87 despite a school-record 47 points by the losers' Doug McKendrick.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO

Freeman Sports Editor

The triumphant return of the Harlem Globetrotters to Kingston provided a thrilling spectacle for many folks who had never seen the Mad Magicians of the professional basketball world.

Hundreds of fans who were unable to gain admittance to the municipal auditorium were beside themselves with frustration. On the other hand, they were lucky and didn't know it.

Seldom has the ticket department of a sports promotion of such magnitude been so completely botched up. Persons who had purchased reserved tickets in advance found their seats pre-empted by fans who purchased ducats at the boxoffice. We received numerous complaints about the whole messy operation.

This, quite definitely, was not one of the shining hours in Harlem Globetrotter history.

• End of the Trail:

Kingston Sport Club ended its 1965 season in the German-American Football Association with 6 wins, 3 losses and two ties. This was an excellent showing for Kurt Schoch's crew. When they resume play next spring in this European-style year-to-year schedule, we trust they will have strengthened their roster and had some success in getting the GAFA to "Americanize" some of its operations.

Like you, we have been confused by two methods employed by the soccer associations to determine their standings.

Fritz L. Marth, secretary of the G-A, sends along the following explanation:

"In all the world, the same determination is used in cases of ties in the point standings. The better goal average will count. The goal average is determined by dividing the goals scored by the goals scored against you.

Example: Team one scores 12 goals against 4, team average is 3; Team Three scores 8 goals against 3, goal average is 2.66.

"We in our league also use the goal average during the season, but we do not use the goal advantage for deciding the championship. In case of two or more teams in a tie, we have a playoff for the championship."

• Charland Hits the Top:

Remember Rene Charland, the Agawam, Mass. stock car driver who operated at Ontario Speedway during Dick Lane's regime?

A recent issue of NASCAR's national race bulletin reveals that Rene has led the National Sportsman Point Standings for the past 4 years with an accumulation of 5614 points.

Rene runs in a rough class but has captured the championship four straight years—1962, 1963, 1964 and 1965. He went to the post 317 times in those four years.

Unlike most sports fathers, particularly in a profession as hazardous as stock car racing, Charland has four sons and says they all would be driving if they were old enough.

"There's nothing like racing," says Charland. "It's a business for men who like to live. I mean that. When a man is racing he's living. What more can a man ask out of life?"

Mrs. Charland apparently shares the same philosophy. She likes Rene to drive.

"It makes him happy," she says.

We didn't know they made them like that anymore.

• Not All Luck for Lux:

Fred Lux, the well known professional at Dutchess Golf and Country Club recently posted the 12th hole-in-one of his career. This should make him about No. 2 in the United States behind top professional Art Wall, who is supposed to have about 40 of the one-shot specialties to his credit.

Lux has a record of all four par-3 holes at Dutchess—the 6th, 8th, 13th and 15th.

Gerald Messia of Troy Country Club has been re-elected president of the Eastern New York Golf Association.

A. J. (Tony) de Lisle of Woodstock is making a nice recovery following surgery at St. Anthony's Hospital in St. Petersburg, Florida.

Dr. Fred Holcomb Jr. of Kingston retained his directors post in the ENYGA.

Rudy Goff, pro at the scenic Taconic Golf Club at Williamstown, Mass., is seeking a new assistant.

Never have we seen Woodstock Country Club's fairways so lush and green during December. They're as green as the roast beef is pink—on Fridays!

Armbr Flight, Bret Hanover Are Top Horses

COLUMBUS, Ohio — (AP) — Harness writers and sportscasters have picked world champion Armbr Flight as the 3-year-old Trotter of the Year, and the great Bret Hanover, already wearer of the Harness Horse of the Year crown, easily earned the pacing laurels in the 3-year-old division.

The U.S. Trotting Association, which conducts the poll, announced today that Armbr Flight was voted best trotter in her age group with 119 votes with Noble Victory providing the closest competition with 46 votes. Hambletonian winner Egyptian Candor earned 11 votes and Nimble Boy collected two.

Bret Hanover dominated the voting in the pacing division with 174 of the 179 votes. Adios Vic, Bret's nemesis on three occasions, and Balenzano each got two votes while Tuxedo Hanover received one.

Law Voted Top Mound Comeback

NEW YORK (AP) — Vernon Law, the veteran Pittsburgh Pirates pitcher who made a brilliant baseball comeback last season, was named winner of the 10th annual Lou Gehrig Memorial Award today.

The big right-hander, who posted a 17-9 record and 2.16 earned run average after having been plagued by injuries in the previous four years, was a unanimous choice of selectors representing Phi Delta Theta fraternity, which presents the Gehrig Award in memory of the late New York Yankees Hall of Famer.

Gehrig was a member of the national fraternity of Columbia University before going on to the Yankees.

Law, an ordained elder of the Mormon Church who has been with the Pirates since 1950, was cited two months ago by The Associated Press as the National League Comeback Player of the Year.

Trotter Hall Is Among Leading Traveler Stops

The Hall of Fame of the Trotter of Goshen has been cited by Travelmats Corporation of America of Wisconsin as one of the outstanding traveler stops in this part of the country.

J. Alvin Druyor, president of Travelmats, the largest travel study agency of its kind in the nation, made the announcement following inspection of the Goshen facilities including location, maintenance, services and value received by customers.

The recognition includes a prominent listing in Travelmats current official issue of Travel Guide, an internationally distributed book for tourists; and publication of a highway placemat which will pinpoint the tourist attraction's location here.

Recognition came only after study by Travelmat representatives who annually review tourist stops on more than 150,000 miles of the nation's major highways.

This was the second national award received by harness racing's Hall of Fame. The first was made by the Helms Athletic Foundation of Los Angeles. The Foundation gave the award "for outstanding contributions to harness racing, perpetuating one of America's most wholesome sports."

Cowboys Sign Roger Staubach

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The latest name in pro football's battle of the signature is one out of the past — Roger Staubach.

The ex-Navy quarterback, who won the Heisman Trophy in 1963, signed an optional contract with Dallas of the National Football League Monday, but it will be at least four years before he can climb into a Cowboy uniform.

Staubach, who graduated from Ann Arbor in 1964, is legally bound to serve in the Navy until June 1969. The Cowboys made it clear that their agreement does not obligate Staubach to leave the naval service.

"If, and when, Roger should decide to leave the Navy, we want him to play in Dallas," Cowboy General Manager Tex Schramm said.

Staubach was drafted as a 10th-round future by Dallas in 1963 and selected by Kansas City of the American League. He is currently assigned to the Naval Academy but will shortly report to the Naval Supply School at Athens, Ga.

Laker Hurting For Old Baylor

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Judging from the latest whipping the Los Angeles Lakers took from the Philadelphia 76ers, one fact stands out: Elgin Baylor had better get well soon if the Lakers are to retain their Western Division title in the National Basketball Association.

NBA action returned to Charleston, W.Va., for the first time in six years Monday night with two West Virginians returning home, Jerry West of the Lakers and Philly's Hal Greer. And the 76ers pounded the Lakers for a 116-107 victory.

A crowd of 5,800 turned out to see the local boys who made good. West, who was an All-America at West Virginia University, was the game's high scorer with 34 points but that was about all the Lakers had to cheer about.

Greer, who played his college basketball at Marshall University in Huntington, W.Va., contributed 24 points to a Philadelphia attack that was anchored, as usual, by Wilt Chamberlain with 29 points.

The game was the only NBA action of the night.

Baylor, one of the league's standouts for several years, has missed several games because of a recurring knee ailment.

Most of Upstate Area Has Snow

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Snow covered most of Upstate New York today in the wake of cold, northerly winds that blew across the state Monday and sent temperatures into the teens and twenties.

Light snow in the southeastern part of the state melted quickly, but many other areas reported icy spots on roads. The snow was blamed for one death. A Walton man suffered a heart attack after his automobile skidded into a ditch on a slippery road.

Snow accumulations were reported along the Thruway from Hickman to Rochester, although most of the highway remained dry.

The Weather Bureau said that fair weather would prevail tonight.

100 Are Called In Reeb Trial

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — Nearly 100 witnesses were summoned today by the defense in the trial of three white men charged with the clubbing death of a Boston clergyman, the Rev. James J. Reeb, a participant in Selma's civil rights campaign last March.

The empanelling of a jury began after most of the witnesses were sworn. Defense attorney Joseph T. Pilcher had subpoenaed nine FBI agents and about a dozen Negroes among defense witnesses.

The first prosecution witnesses called by Circuit Solicitor Blanchard McLeod were two companions of the slain minister. They are the Rev. Orloff Miller of Boston, and the Rev. Clark Olson of Berkeley, Calif. The defendants are Namon O'Neal Hoggie, 31; his brother, William Stanley Hoggie, 37, and Elmer L. Cook, 42.

They were indicted for first degree murder in the death of the 35-year-old Reeb, a Unitarian minister who died two days after he was clubbed on the head in an attack on a Selma street.

Among the few prosecution witnesses was R.B. Kelley, who reportedly was at or near the scene of the assault. Kelley was arrested but not indicted.

Pope Proclaims Last 4 Decrees, No Sidestepping

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI proclaimed the last four decrees of the Vatican Ecumenical Council today and promised the questions it did not answer—such as birth control—would not be put aside after the three-year-old council ends Wednesday.

All Approved

The bishops of the Roman Catholic Church took final formal votes on each of the decrees in a public council session in St. Peter's Basilica. All were approved, and the controversial documents on religious liberty and modern world problems received even bigger majorities than in earlier working sessions.

Pope Paul then promulgated the documents. The religious liberty declaration and the 36,000-word statement on modern world problems—denouncing nuclear warfare and keeping open the question of birth control—were milestones for the Roman Catholic Church. They committed it to a more open, more accommodating relationship with the world around it.

The modern world statement did not alter Roman Catholic teaching on birth control but left the way open for future changes. Apparently alluding to this and other questions, Pope Paul said in a discourse.

"If quite a few questions raised during the course of the council itself still await appropriate answers, this shows that its labors are now coming to a close not out of weariness but in a state of vitality."

"In the post-conciliar period this vitality will apply. God willing, its generous and well-regulated energies to the study of such questions."

Simultaneous Declarations

The council session was also historic in another respect. Pope Paul here and Patriarch Athenagoras in Istanbul made simultaneous declarations canceling excommunications that led to the break between the Roman and Orthodox churches nine centuries ago.

The religious liberty declaration was approved by a vote of 2,308-70.

A vote of 2,309-75 accepted the decree on modern world problems.

In working sessions of the council 251 prelates had opposed the modern world schema and 249 objected to the religious liberty declaration.

The other two decrees promulgated today were on missionary activity, (approved 2,394-5), and on the priestly life, (approved 2,390-4).

The four council decrees rounded out the vast modernization plan produced by the council since Pope John XXIII opened it in St. Peter's on Oct. 11, 1962.

They brought to 16 the number of documents issued by the council. The 16 decrees provide a blueprint for the renovation of the Church.

Criticism Made Of Watts Report

LOS ANGELES (AP) — California's governor says he'll try to implement his riot commission's report, which suggests possible violence worse than last August's in Los Angeles if Negroes' "explosive" conditions aren't improved.

What's more, Gov. Edmund G. Brown said as he accepted the massive, 101-page study, he'll call the commission back in six months so it can check progress.

But considerable unfavorable reaction also greeted the eight civic leaders' report Monday on the deadly, destructive six days in a 4½-square-mile area including shattered Watts.

"Totally inadequate," said a labor union official. "Deeply disappointed," said a civil rights leader.

Tucked into the graphic, 30,000-word report, 100 days in the making at a cost of $250,000, was this paragraph:

"So serious and so explosive is the situation that, unless it is checked, the August riots may seem by comparison to be only a curtain-raiser for what could blow up one day in the future."

The commission proposed "expensive and burdensome" programs in job development, education and law enforcement to prevent a recurrence of the fire-bombing, gunfire and looting that left:

Thirty-four persons dead, 1,032 injured, 3,952 arrested, property loss over $40 million, more than 600 buildings damaged, more than 200 of them destroyed.

At the height of the Aug. 11-17 violence, the commission said, perhaps 10,000 Negroes took to the streets in marauding bands.

"They looted stores, set fires, beat up white passersby whom they hauled from stopped cars, many of which were turned upside down and burned, exchanged shots with law enforcement officers and stoned and shot at firemen," the report said.

Campanology is the art of ringing bells in mathematical combination.

Soviet Boosts Defense Budget

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union announced a 5 per cent increase in its defense budget today because of what the finance minister called "conditions of international danger."

Finance Minister Vasily Garbuzov told the Supreme Soviet (parliament) that 13.4-billion rubles will be spent on defense in 1966.

That is more than $14.8 billion at the official exchange rate and 600-million rubles ($666 million) more than the announced figure for 1965.

President Will Return for Talks With Ayub Khan

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas White House announced today President Johnson will return to Washington for a Dec. 14-15 conference with President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan.

Press secretary Bill D. Moyers made the announcement.

Officials said privately it was likely Johnson would remain in Washington for a Dec. 17 session with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson.

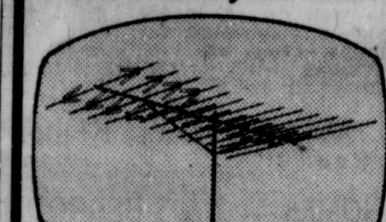

Both Wilson and Ayub had, at one point, been expected to meet Johnson at the LBJ Ranch.

Moyers was asked about plans for the Dec. 19-20 visit of West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard. He said Johnson and Erhard still plan to get together at the President's ranch, as previously announced, but that developments could alter the situation.

Gemini At-A-Glance

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Astronauts' Condition: Gemini 7 crewmen Borman and Lovell, voicing confidence they can fly full 14-day mission, say they're in fine shape physically.

Mission Status: Trackers find all systems are functioning as intended.

Problems: Borman accidentally brushes off his head the electrodes measuring brain waves, but Lovell tapes them back in place.

Weather: Still no problems. Achievements: Two space firsts — Lovell shucks spacesuit and flies in long underwear, demonstrating astronauts of future may work in lightly clad comfort during long voyages; and Gemini 7 maneuvered earlier to fly in formation with the spent second stage of its booster rocket. Crew also sighted and tracked a Polaris missile launched from a nuclear submarine near Cape Kennedy.
